GC crime down 9.6% last year, 48% of crimes solved

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Editor

"I think this points out that Granite City is just a real great place to live," Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler said Friday in response to the city police department's annual report which showed crime during 1984 continued to decrease and that crimes here were solved at a rate more than twice the national average.

Major crime decreased 9.6 percent from 1983 to 1984, the report shows, while 48 percent of the major crimes were cleared by arrests last year, the report shows.

THAT FIGURE more than doubled the national average of 21 percent of crimes cleared by arrest, according to Granite City Chief of Police Ronald J. Veizer. "I want to commend the men, all of them. I am very happy with the performance of the Granite City Police Department in 1984."

"The whole department performed exceptionally well, even being short-handed. I am extremely proud of them," Veizer said.

The department has been operating five men short for several years, one opening since an officer died and was not replaced and the other four from when the city's four dispatchers were laid off and had to be replaced by uniformed policemen.

"...points out that GC is just a real great place to live"—Schuler

SCHULER SAID he is especially pleased with the number of crimes solved by his department. Of 2,012 major crimes reported in 1984, 962 were cleared by arrest. "We have a low crime rate and we are solving the crimes we do have at twice the national average," Schuler noted.

"I congratulate the police department for making Granite City a great place to live," the mayor added.

The 2,012 major crimes reported in 1984 was a 9.6 percent decline from the 2,227 major crimes reported in the city in 1983. Four crime categories showed declines while four others rose. There were no homicides reported in the city either in 1983 or 1984.

CRIME CATEGORIES showing declines in 1984 include: 21 percent, from 501 reported cases in 1983 to 395 in 1984. A total of 134 burglary cases, or 34 percent, was solved by arrest last year.

—Auto burglary, down 28 percent, from 331 crimes in 1983 to 237 in 1984.

A total of 49 cases, or 21 percent, was cleared by arrest last year.

—Larceny, down 11 percent, from 913 reported cases in 1983 to 809 cases in 1984. There were a total of 18 larcenies, or 20 percent, solved in 1984.

CRIMES WHICH showed increases were: —Robbery, up 43 percent, from 14 cases in 1983 to 20 cases in 1984. A total of 11 robberies, or 55 percent, were cleared by arrest.

—Forcible rape, up 25 percent, from four cases in 1983 to five cases in 1984. Veizer said he is extremely proud, despite the increase, because police solved six cases, or 120 percent of the robberies, he noted.

—Assault, up 17 percent, from 386 cases in 1983 to 451 in 1984. A total of 427 cases, or 94 percent, was solved by arrest in 1984.

—Auto theft, up 18 percent, from 78 cases reported in 1983 to 92 cases last year. Eighteen cases, or 20 percent, were solved by arrest.

The report also noted that there were eight arson cases and four suspected arson cases investigated during 1984.

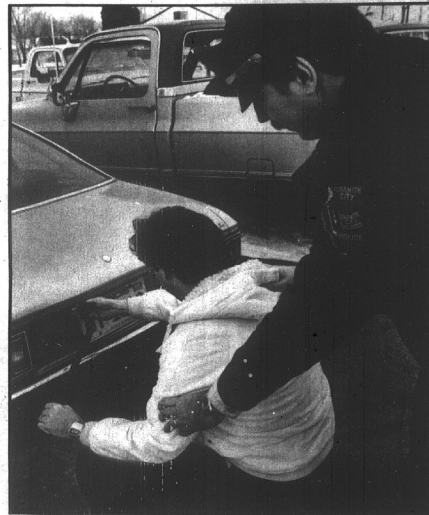

TRAFFIC ARRESTS also were higher in 1984 than the previous year by 14 percent. There were 5,254 arrests for traffic violations last year compared to 4,604 arrests in 1983. Total arrests, including traffic, misdemeanor and felony, were up two percent last year with 7,982 people arrested, an increase from 7,788 in 1983, the report shows.

With more than one charge against some of those arrested, total charges filed during the year in all categories was up four-tenths of one percent last year, from 8,699 charges to 8,965 in 1984.

The number of auto accidents in the year was two percent higher than in 1983, the report shows. There were 1,344 accidents in 1983 and 1,377 last year, but the number of personal injury accidents increased 10 percent, from 280 in 1983 to 307 last year.

THREE PERSONS lost their lives in traffic accidents in Granite City last year, the same number as in 1983. The number of persons injured in the 307 injury accidents was last year totaled 408, a two percent drop from the 416 persons injured in traffic here in 1983.

The report also notes that the police answered 20,634 complaints during 1984, or an average of 56 a day.

Study raises for county administrators

Raises for Madison County governmental administrators are being planned but are not likely to be considered when the County Board meets Wednesday morning.

Action on Feb. 20 is considered likely because county officials have not yet had a chance to discuss the size of salary increases.

THE NEW YEAR began Dec. 1 and pay has not been determined for non-elected department heads and supervisors. Hourly hikes of 41 cents for supervisors have been under discussion.

The 29-member board is expected to approve five percent raises now and in 1986 for members of American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Local 799 and other county employees.

Negotiations are continuing with Teamsters' Local 525 members working for the county highway department. Sheriff employees in the Operating Engineers are in the second year of a two-year contract.

BOARD CHAIRMAN Nelson Haglund, the Personnel Committee and the Finance Committee will review the pay schedule for department heads and supervisors.

The administrators include Mrs. Mary Kane, director of administration, and such directors as data processing, highways and community development.

A pay freeze related to a revenue imbalance prevented any raises a year ago. For 1985, increases have been approved for board members, the circuit clerk, auditor, coroner and recorder of deeds.

The salary of new Supervisor of Assessments Robert Harris is to be set Wednesday.

JANUARY'S BOARD agenda

Wednesday includes a contract with the Madison County Transit board of trustees, rental of emergency housing units, a contract with the Senior Aides program to provide employment services for the elderly, equipment purchases for the recorder's office, a farmland lease and zoning votes.

Henry Gabriel is scheduled to be hired as the architect for construction of an addition to the county's animal control building.

Highway improvements from January 1985 through December 1989 are to be outlined.

Filings today for April 2 elections

Filing began this morning for the April 2 city, township and park district elections throughout the Quad-City area.

Candidates who filed petitions as the filing period opened this morning were:

Fourteen persons filed simultaneously this morning for offices in the city of Granite City. The doors for city hall were opened an hour early for the event, at 8 a.m.

Those filing first for the position of mayor include Paul Schuler, Paul Ray Bowler and Von Dee Cruse.

Incumbent City Clerk Robert Stevens also filed this morning.

In the First and Second Wards, one person filed for each position, Casper Skubish and Fred "Pat" Schuman, respectively.

Corps to study Dobrey groundwater

By SUSANNE INDELICATO
of the Press-Record

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has announced plans to test a well installed between Hemlock Avenue and Pine Street in the Dobrey Slough area. Tentative plans call for the tests to begin Tuesday morning, Jan. 15, weather permitting, according to Corps Study Manager Dan Marshall.

The well is the latest addition to a pumping system designed to alleviate flooding due to a high underground water table in the area, he explained. The well will be used to pull underground water into the slough and channel it to a pump station located at the end of the slough, near Pontoon Road. That pump station automatically activates when the water level in the slough rises, pulling water into pipes leading to the Nameoki ditch. From there, the water empties into Horseshoe Lake.

MARSHALL SAID Corps officials intend to monitor the well's operations for two to three days to ascertain whether or not the system is effective in lowering the underground water table. One way to determine that, Marshall said, is through the use of piezometers, which measure the level of underground water. Piezometers have been placed in various locations in the slough.

Once the test is completed, Marshall added, the well will be removed, due to agreements with landowners in the area.

The results of the test, Marshall noted, will be used in developing a computer model to determine the best way to use pumps in the slough and in the American Bottoms area, which includes Granite City.

HELEN HAWKINS, who has actively promoted the project for the past several years, says the testing of the well is welcome news. "I'm pretty excited about it, regardless of how the test goes."

Mrs. Hawkins contends that the high underground water level, induced by a swollen Mississippi River, has led to sewer damage in the area. In fact, a Corps study has determined that the water table has resulted in many millions of dollars in damages from flooded basements, broken sewer lines and sinking houses.

Because of that, the Corps has developed an extensive study to find ways to alleviate the flooding. Marshall says the study should be completed in 1987 and, should Congress approve funding, the construction of a drainage system could start in the early 1990s.

AS PART OF the study, the Corps has distributed questionnaires to residents in the American Bottoms area. Of the 2,700 responses received so far, 1,850 are from Granite City residents, Marshall said.

In addition, brochures explaining the ground water problem and offering possible solutions are available at county, township and municipal offices in the American Bottoms area.

Rev. Harold Wilson, president of the Madison branch of the NAACP. Several children, carrying posters of Dr. King, led the procession through the streets. A program, featuring the guest speaker, the Rev. Stanley Howlett Sr., and several musical selections by the church's choir, immediately followed the march. About 30 persons participated in the march.

Smoke detectors offered to Madison homeowners

Appointments are being made for the installation of smoke detectors in Madison and the initial work should begin approximately Jan. 19, Fire Chief Mike Macek announced today.

Any Madison homeowner who wants a smoke detector in his or her home is advised to call 487-4854 to have their name registered on the work list, Macek added.

THE IDEA of promoting this project for the benefit of the residents began about Dec. 1, when the firemen agreed to take money they earned in various fund raisers and purchase detectors, then install them free of cost in homes.

For those who can afford to pay for the detectors, there will be a $10 charge. For those unable to pay the fee, the fire department will provide the detectors free of charge.

According to Macek, the department has enough money to buy 100 detectors and they hope donations will be forthcoming from area businessmen and organizations to provide for the needy people. There are about 2,200 households in the city of Madison, the fire chief added.

Slow and easy is the secret to winter driving

"Slow" and "easy." According to Norman Darwick, executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, these are two key words that give motorists extra advantage in solving winter-driving problems — the need for extra time and extra space to stop and to maneuver on winter slick roads.

Darwick contends that stubbornly sticking to 55 mile an hour speeds (or to other posted limits) regardless of conditions can lure drivers into traveling too fast on slippery pavements or when visibility is restricted during winter storms.

The importance of accurately reading pavement conditions as they may change during the day has been detailed by Darwick, who in addition to his IACP responsibilities is also a director of the Safe Winter Driving League headquartered in Chicago.

"Get the 'feel' of the road throughout the day and whenever there is any question as to how slippery the road surface is. By gunning the engine or by jabbing the brake pedal away from traffic, you can determine how much traction is available. Reduce your speed and increase your following distance accordingly."

To illustrate how much adjustment may be necessary, Darwick turned to findings based on controlled tests conducted by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards.

From a speed of 55 miles an hour on good, dry pavement, a car can be braked to a stop in about 150 feet.

By contrast, a speed of only 20 miles an hour on glare ice can produce braking distances of about 150 feet — close to nine car lengths.

"In other words," Darwick points out, "for equal stopping ability, speeds on glare ice should be cut to about one-third of those considered reasonable under ideal conditions."

Skid testers also emphasize the importance of temperature changes in relation to the slipperiness of ice and packed snow. At temperatures near freezing (32°F) the braking distance on glare ice may stretch out to as much as 260 feet (about 15 car lengths) from 20 mph — twice the stopping distance at zero degrees.

Darwick also relies heavily on NSC research findings when it comes to recommendations for traction aids.

In relation to stopping: "Tire chains are your best aid in stopping on ice, where they can cut braking distances by as much as 50 percent compared with regular highway tires reduced 31 percent."

Where studs are permitted, they help. Tires with new studs on the rear wheels reduce braking distances about 18 percent on ice, with new studs on all four wheels (studded snow tires on rear, studded regular tires on front), braking distances are reduced 31 percent.

Conventional snow tires (without studs) are of little or no help in stopping on ice. When it comes to getting started and keeping going:

—On ice — conventional snow tires develop about 28 percent more traction ability than regular tires. Studded snow tires provide about three times and reinforced chains about seven times the traction of regular tires.

—On loosely packed snow — conventional snow tires develop about half again as much pulling ability as regular tires, while tire chains provide vide about four times the pull of regular tires.

Contrary to the impression of many motorists, radial tires are not necessarily a substitute for snow tires for driving on snow and ice. The performance of radial tires varies widely and is dependent on the type of tread; for example, a snow tread will perform as a snow tire, a regular tread will perform as a regular highway tire.

"These test results make a key fact abundantly clear," Darwick concludes. "Even with the help of special traction equipment, performance on snow and ice is nowhere near the normal, dry pavement performance."

"Reduce speeds drastically, follow other vehicles at a far greater distance, and perform all maneuvers — slowing, steering or accelerating — with a gentle, delicate touch. Easy does it!"

Three injured at 20th and Madison

Three persons sustained injuries at 8:35 p.m. Saturday in an accident on Madison Avenue at 20th Street, one of 18 traffic mishaps reported between 8 a.m. Friday and 8 a.m. Sunday.

Tax tips

Working towards tax reform is not illegal. On the other hand, illegal tax protests, such as advocating or participating in a scheme that results in the underpayment or non-payment of taxes or the non-filing of required tax returns, is against the law.

Contrary to the misleading information of some promoters, taxpayers who refuse to pay all or part of their taxes, to supply required information, or to file a necessary tax return can anticipate strict civil and criminal enforcement of the law, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The maximum penalty for not filing a tax return is a $25,000 fine and one year in prison. But, short of criminal prosecution, the civil penalties that can be asserted by the IRS and the interest charges for the late payment of the tax can more than equal the tax that should have been paid in the first place.

The IRS cautions, "Beware of 'easy out' schemes. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is."

The Internal Revenue Service says that in many cases, abusive tax shelters have appeared on the market that claim benefits never intended by law.

Generally, these abusive shelters are marketing schemes, often for substantial fees, that involve artificial transactions with little or no profit motive. Other characteristics include inflated appraisals, unrealistic allocations, losses which are in excess of investment, volume purchases at "wholesale" to claim charitable contributions based on retail, and a number of other devices lacking in economic substance.

Investing in an abusive tax shelter, the IRS says, is an expensive proposition. Consider the consequences: The promoter generally charges a "substantial fee"; the chance of examination by the IRS is great; and the taxpayer will face payment of the tax, substantial interest on the unpaid tax, plus a variety of penalties.

The IRS advises potential tax shelter investors to consider all the facts and circumstances involved, and to seek competent tax counsel before investing.

From a tax standpoint, cash winnings from lotteries, races, games of chance, and raffles are viewed as income on the federal tax return, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Similarly, contest prize money and awards from employers are also considered as taxable income by the IRS and must be reported.

The IRS adds that property items won in contests or donated by employers, such as household appliances, all-expense-paid vacations, or cars must also be included in income at fair market value. Both cash and non-cash winnings are shown on Form 1040 as "Other income."

The IRS notes that gambling losses may be deducted to the extent of the winnings. Deductions are itemized.

AUTO RECOVERED

A 1979 Pontiac Grand Prix belonging to Alfred Crawford Jr., 427 Lincoln Ave., Venice, reported stolen at 10:40 p.m. Saturday, was recovered by an Illinois State Police Trooper in Washington Park at 9:20 a.m. Sunday.

Working for 6,000 jobs here

Illinois is actively trying to convince General Motors that it should construct a new automotive manufacturing plant in Illinois. The plant would employ 6,000 people.

We do not believe there are any better sites for the plant in the state than in the Quad-City area. We are at the hub of the nation and have easy access to all of the raw materials, an unsurpassed transportation network, a surplus of skilled labor and all of the necessary ingredients.

It is time for Quad-City area officials to get active and see that prime industrial locations in this area are not overlooked as GM's new Saturn Corporation picks a spot for its new plant.

It would be easy for officials who have been unsuccessful in attracting an automotive plant here before to sit back and say it can't be done, but that would be to ignore the obvious advantages of this region.

All Quad-City officials, labor leaders, Chamber of Commerce officials, bankers, planners and economic development specialists should be contacting the office of Governor James R. Thompson immediately and asking the question, "How can we help?"

This is too good an opportunity to sit back and let pass. Six thousand jobs locally would not only revive the economy, it would assure the solid future of this area for many years to come.

Those wooing the plant should keep in mind that other states will be making concessions to attract the plant. Tax advantages, labor concessions, free land may be among the offerings. Illinois has some drawbacks, the current Workmen's Compensation rate among them, which should be looked at immediately if we are to attract Saturn Corporation.

We urge an all-out effort by all Quad-Cityans to help attract the plant here and we ask our governmental and Chamber leaders to let each and every one of us know who we can write or call to help attract this plant industry to the Quad-City area.

Our obvious advantages have been overlooked too many times. Let's not sit back and allow it to happen again!

Cable hike needs to be 'sold'

We are not going to say that South-Western Cable TV, Ltd., does not need a rate hike, but we would like to see the company taking more action "selling" local communities on their need for the increase.

Officials of Pontoon Beach are balking at and Granite City officials are considering the company's proposal to raise basic service rates by $1, or 12.5 percent, per home and premium movie channels by 75 cents each.

Pontoon officials are studying a copy of the company's profit and loss sheet before agreeing that an increase is necessary. They complain that every time it rains hard, cable service goes out. That is a complaint we have heard often and Lon Carruth, general manager of South-Western, pledged to the Granite City Council in May of 1984 that in a major overhaul of the company's service department and boosting of the television signal should provide viewers with better and more dependable service. Now, nearly eight months later, we have not noticed any improvement.

The employees of South-Western Cable recently received a wage increase of more than 12.5 percent, which the customers are now being asked to pay. In today's local economy, 12.5 percent, in itself, is a rather large increase. The reasons such large raises were granted should be explained to the governmental officials now studying whether or not to grant the requested rate hike.

Fortunately, until December 1986, cities and villages who grant franchises for cable TV retain control over the rates. After that date, however, the Cable Telecommunications Act of 1984 frees cable companies from such controls.

South-Western seems slow to react to criticism now. We worry about their attitude after they are freed of government controls.

The company has lost friends by regularly shutting off service to customers within days after their bills were due without any grace period, final warning or prior notification.

Carruth has pledged that he wants to "play fair" with local officials, but fails to return telephone calls or answer questions, we have noted.

South-Western should improve its image before asking us to pay more for cable TV service. At least until such a time that the company is freed from government regulation, we feel it should be trying harder to satisfy public officials and its customers. Even a company putting out a good product needs a good salesman to survive.

Price's successor is tough

The entrenched chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, backed up by the heavy artillery of Generalissimo Tip O'Neill, has been ousted by a guerrilla action.

Rebel Democrats toppled doddering Rep. Melvin Price and elected hard-charging Rep. Les Aspin to head the Pentagon watchdog committee.

Aspin is a frequent Pentagon critic. He represents a district in Wisconsin that has no military bases and few defense contractors.

But he is far from ignorant about the Pentagon. Before being elected to Congress as an anti-Vietnam War candidate, he served in the Pentagon as a systems analyst, one of Robert McNamara's whiz kids.

Rep. Jim Bates, from San Diego, who helped lead the guerrilla revolt, says:

"Aspin's the first technocrat to have the committee. He's very bright. He holds a doctorate from MIT. He understands technology, the nuts and bolts. He has the ability to make some changes. But whether the majority on the committee or in the Democratic caucus will follow him is another question."

The changes Aspin advocates involve redefining the committee's role away from being an uncritical defender of the Pentagon, to becoming a constructive partner in the drafting of defense policy.

"The problem is that the public perceives a bigger defense is better," Bates says. "It's the same problem as the social issues, throwing money at a problem without having a strategy. Democrats have got to get in on the policy debate at the ground floor — not at the end, when we appear mendacious."

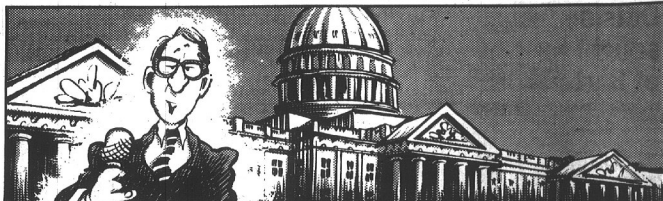

Aspin will cause headaches for President Reagan and Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger, who have submitted a fat Pentagon budget to Congress.

The Pentagon budget is going to have to be cut. The trick will be to strip off the fat, leaving the meat. Will Aspin be a Pentagon butcher, indiscriminately chopping off programs?

He should not be considered beyond compromise. He enraged his liberal colleagues by halting his opposition to the MX missile and voting for it, in exchange for concessions from the White House on arms control. How Aspin will vote on the MX in the future is uncertain.

Military strength is not only measured by size, but also by intelligence and agility. The Pentagon has able defenders in the White House. It now has an intelligent critic in the House. The clash of ideas is a tough but necessary way to hammer out a durable defense.

Age-Term Guidelines

Since U.S. Rep. Melvin Price's (D-Illinois) recent ouster as chairman of the Armed Services Committee, talk on Capitol Hill has abounded of establishing an age or term requirement for officials. Persons shopping at Crossroads Plaza Sunday were questioned about the topic. Their reactions follow:

Jack Tripp, Granite City

"Yes, I think there should be a limit on how long they (congressmen or women) can serve. I'd be in favor of a single 6-year term. The president's term is restricted. Why not limit the Congress as well. I think too often politicians worry about re-election before serving the people."

Ellen Voyles, Granite City

"I think it'd be difficult (to begin such a mandatory retirement age guideline). That's limiting a person's ability to work. And with all the talk of 'right to work' I don't think anything like that would happen. However, in the Melvin Price's case, I think it's apparent that he's overstayed his welcome. I think the answer may lie with limiting a congressman's term. That's what they do the president."

Paula Linn, Granite City

"I think it would be tough to limit a congressman to a specific number of terms in office. Although it's kind of ridiculous when they've been in there so long that they can no longer serve. Maybe the best thing is to establish a limit of terms. Two (terms) may be the best."

Rodney Cochran, Granite City

"Yes, I do think there should be an age requirement. It seems as though everyone else is restricted to a retirement date. Sixty-five isn't it? They (politicians) like to think they're different than the rest of us, but they're not. In Price's case, he should have retired and spared himself the embarrassment of the ouster."

Says Gordon's prayer was very appropriate

To the Editor:

In regard to the accusation that Tip Gordon is mixing religion and politics, I think it should be explained exactly what took place for the benefit of those who are not familiar with the Catholic Mass.

During the part of the Mass called "General Intercessions," the congregation is encouraged to include in the prayer any personal intentions or request for prayers that they might have. It was at this time that Mr. Gordon asked us to pray for him.

His exact words were, "I humbly ask that you pray for me as I take over the duties of leadership of this community until the election in April."

In my opinion, this was not only very appropriate but beautiful and sincere. He deserves and needs all our prayers and encouragement as it is not an easy task he is undertaking. May God be with him!

Many accidents could be prevented

Motorists need all the help they can get. According to a National Safety Council spokesman, drivers need a "clear advantage" every time they slide behind the wheel.

These words characterize basic traffic accident prevention issues as viewed by Richard Tippie, director of transportation safety, National Safety Council. As Tippie points out, "ISSUE ONE — ALCOHOL AND DRUG ABUSE: Studies show that alcohol is a factor in more than half of all traffic crashes. The sober driver remains — individuals take chances and misjudge risks drastically when under the influence of alcohol and drugs."

A clear head and sound thinking are absolute musts in traffic. Use of safety restraints is a clear defense against unpredictable actions of another driver who may be drunk.

ISSUE TWO — POOR ACCEPTANCE OF P.S.A.F.E.T.Y. RESTRAINTS: Less than 4 percent of all motorists actually use the safety restraints built into today's vehicles even though 90 percent believe they're a good idea. Safety restraints when properly used can reduce serious traffic injuries by 50 percent and fatalities by 70 to 75 percent — a clear advantage.

ISSUE THREE — DANGERS OF WINTER DRIVING CONDITIONS:

Tippie's duties at NSC include administration of the Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards. Committee skid testing has developed clear information to give drivers important advantages during winter driving conditions. As summarized by Tippie, basic concepts include:

— For stopping ability equal to dry pavement, speeds on glare ice should be reduced to about one-third of those under ideal conditions.

— If you can stop your car in 150 feet on glare ice from 20 mph and you double your speed to 40 mph your stopping distance stretches out to some 600 feet (braking distance varies as the square of the speed).

— Temperature changes greatly affect the slipperiness of ice and packed snow. Temperatures near freezing (32°F) on glare ice can result in braking distances as much as 200 feet (about 14 car lengths) from a speed of only 20 mph — twice the distance at zero degrees!

— For pulling traction — improvement ratings on glare ice are: snow tires — 18 percent; studded snow tires — 218 percent; reinforced tire chains — 630 percent. On loosely packed snow comparable ratings are: snow tires — 31 percent; reinforced tire chains — 313 percent.

— Radial tires, per se, are no substitute for snow tires. Their performance depends on tread configuration — when a radial tire has a snow tread, it performs as a snow tire; when it has a regular highway tread, it performs as a regular highway tire.

When the other tires are radials, snow tires used on the drive wheels must be of the radial design also to avoid handling problems.

When special traction devices are used on rear drive wheels only, as is customary, the cornering capacity of the vehicle of the vehicle is not materially improved.

— A sub-compact car will stop in a shorter distance in a panic stop on ice than a compact car, which in turn is likely to require a shorter distance than a standard car.

However, the lighter cars have notable difficulty getting underway again, particularly at warmer ice temperatures.

Tippie urged drivers to keep test information handy and benefit by the clear advantages summarized to cope with winter conditions.

"Remember, however," he warned, "no matter what tires, or techniques you use, in no instance is the resulting performance even close to that on a dry or even a wet pavement!"

"YOU'RE SORRY? HEY, NO PROBLEM! IT'S PROBABLY MY FAULT FOR BEING HERE!"

Outside judge sought for trial of Barton case

Special Prosecutor Bruce B. Locher last week sought appointment of an outside judge to conduct the trial of former assessment supervisor James Barton and five other defendants in an alleged assessment bribery case.

His motion contended that judges of the 3rd and 20th circuits are biased toward the defendants and against the prosecution.

Locher asks that Madison and St. Clair counties area judges disqualify themselves and that the Illinois court administrator assign a judge from outside the two circuits.

The special prosecutor said Chief Circuit Judge A.A. Mateosian and Circuit Judge Paul J. O'Neill in December 1983 need to authorize use of an eavesdropping device to record the conversations of Gerald Bassett, one of the defendants. They are described as friends of Gerald's father, Attorney Merle Bassett, also one of those indicted.

Circuit Judge John DeLaurenti later authorized the eavesdropping. Locher noted that Barton has been an active fund-raiser and contributor to Democratic campaigns. All the 3rd Circuit judges are Democrats. Merle Bassett and defendant Robert Quinn also are pictured as contributors to judicial election campaigns.

O'Neill, Locher recalled, obtained from Circuit Judge Philip J. Rarick last year the removal of then State's Attorney Don W. Weber from investigating "assessment selling."

Other judges disqualified themselves from the case, and out-of-circuit judges Stephen M. Kernan of St. Clair County and then Dennis Cashman of Quincy were assigned by the state court administrative office.

Dismissal of earlier charges against Barton, ordered by Associate Judge Edward Ferguson, was overturned by the appellate court.

The current case has not yet been assigned to a trial judge. Rarick, chief criminal court judge, handled arraignments, set bail for the six and will rule on the motion for an outside judge.

Locher, of Springfield, says Madison County judges met Nov. 14 and decided to oppose Locher if he tried to call additional grand jury sessions to consider evidence and return more indictments.

The special prosecutor fought this, asserting that only the outside judge who appointed him could fire him or limit his activities. Indictment of the six followed in December.

Judge Mateosian said the stand in regard to Locher was taken because a new state's attorney was taking office and a special prosecutor might not be needed. Richard Allen, however, who defeated Weber, decided to let Locher continue.

Tax checkoff aiding wildlife in Illinois

The 36,000 Illinois residents who contributed to the nongame wildlife conservation fund on their 1983 tax returns are getting excellent mileage on their investment, according to Carl Becker, chief of the Natural Heritage Section, Division of Forestry and Natural Heritage, Department of Conservation.

A wide range of projects will soon be under way directly benefiting numerous wildlife species within the state, ranging from bald eagles to bluebirds. "A very small percentage of the funds collected is utilized for administrative overhead, with the remainder slated for projects which will have a dramatic impact on the state's wildlife scene," Becker said.

"Peregrine falcons—magnificent aerial hunters, which can hit 200 miles an hour in their attack dive—should once again appear in Illinois skies, thanks to the nongame conservation fund," Becker said. The DOC will soon begin a study to determine the best means to reintroduce this species once common to Illinois.

Nongame checkoff money will also fund the first Bald Eagle Appreciation Day at Lock and Dam 10 along the Mississippi River, at Keokuk, Jan. 19-20. Citizens may attend any one of 16 scheduled seminars and observe the many eagles which winter there each year.

Artificial nest structures for the only nesting colony of double-crested cormorants within the state will be built at Thomson, along the Mississippi River in northwest Illinois. Near Barrington, in Chicago's one of only five documented nesting sites for the black-crowned night heron.

A series of public bluebird workshops is another program to be funded by checkoff funds, Becker said. Eight workshops will provide general information on bluebirds, and instruction on building badly needed bluebird houses to replace natural nesting sites fallen victim to increased development and changes in agricultural practices.

Expanded technical assistance for private landowners also will receive support through taxpayer donations. Two additional natural heritage biologists will soon be hired to work with citizens. The need for the increased staff, Becker said, was documented by a U.S. Forest Service analysis showing current efforts were meeting only six percent of the need.

Education is a high priority for nongame funds, Becker said. This was identified by citizens at a public workshop to determine how nongame funds could be most efficiently utilized. One result is "Project Wild," a program to distribute a conservation teacher's guide to thousands of Illinois classrooms.

"Project Wild" guides serve as supplemental curriculum, allowing teachers to communicate the conservation ethic while developing students' skill in math, reading, grammar, biology and other disciplines. Thirty-two states have adopted the Project Wild concept.

Funds have been allocated for a full-time manager for the state's only prairie chicken refuge, building and distributing barn owl nest boxes, a study of bald eagle distribution and use along Illinois waterways, a prairie restoration program, and building of nesting structures for the endangered Forster's tern.

"This is a good beginning," Becker said. "We expect that increased awareness of the nongame checkoff option for state income taxpayers will result in increased public participation in the coming year. People are starting to realize that marking an X on Line 11b is an easy and effective way to assist Illinois wildlife."

Are you single? Do you earn less than $50,000? Do you have less than $400 in interest income? Taxpayers who answer yes to these questions may be eligible to file the Form 1040EZ.

The IRS estimates that one out of five taxpayers can use the simplified Form 1040EZ this year.

The 1040EZ is for use by single taxpayers with one personal exemption and no dependents. The income must come only from wages, salaries, tips, and no more than $400 interest. A partial deduction for charitable contributions may also be claimed on the 1040EZ. For single persons, this deduction is 25 percent of the first $100 donated to charity.

Form 1040EZ contains only 11 lines and the simple language of the form and instructions makes it easy to use.

Form 1040EZ is available at local IRS offices and many local banks, post offices, and libraries or by calling toll-free 1-800-424-1040.

Accidents on ice injure 6 persons

Six persons reported injuries Thursday in five Granite City traffic accidents attributed to snow and ice. Overall daily collisions totaled 10 Wednesday and 11 Thursday.

As Theresa Boulds, 18, Alton, tried change lanes while driving south on Edwardsville Road at 13th Street, her car began to spin in a circle. Facing west, it crossed into a northbound lane, where it was hit in the right side by the front of the northbound auto of Byron Otis Magafas, 28, Creve Coeur, Mo.

Slight injuries were received by Magafas and a passenger in the Boulds vehicle. Audra Himmelright, 18, of 3137 Ash Ave. Theresa Boulds was ticketed for driving too fast for road conditions.

A hazardous area of Illinois Route Three was the scene of another injury crash Thursday.

Northbound John F. Prothro, 30, of 514 Mercedita St., Venice, was descending the overpass immediately south of Meadlough Avenue, the traffic light turned red, he applied brakes and his auto skidded on ice. Its front end hit the left side of the auto of J. L. Howe, 20, Valparaiso, Ind., who was westbound and crossing the highway. Howe sustained injuries and was taken for treatment to the adjacent Granite City Army Installation.

George P. Widel, 59, of 2736 Willow Ave. was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center after the rear of his eastbound auto was hit as he halted at West Pontoon Road rail crossing gates. There was damage to the front of a trash truck driven by Jeffrey Schneider, 22, Wentzville; Schneider said his vehicle skidded on icy pavement near the crossing.

As Karl Krug, 46, of 4038 Melrose Ave. slowed his northbound pickup truck to turn left from Madison Avenue onto 29th Street, the rear of the truck was struck by the front of the skidding northbound car of William MacKellar, 43, Chesterfield, Mo. Krug was injured.

A collision on the Bellemore Village Shopping Center parking lot damaged the right side of the southbound auto of Mary DeFuntz, 24, of 2329 Lynch Ave., who was injured, and the front of the eastbound car of Thomas Miller, 2553 Spalding Avenue.

ICE CAUSES HYDRANT CRASH

A skid on ice caused the auto of William Mullins, 3274 Wetschester Drive, to leave Johnson Road at Country Lane Court early Thursday. The front end of his auto hitting a fire hydrant and bending over a city stop sign.

Q. I have an Individual Retirement Account which, I thought, was pretty, shall we say, inviolate, without pretty stiff penalties. Someone, however, mentioned that he had borrowed from his IRA. I didn't think that was possible. Is it?

A. Yes, it is possible, but it isn't a good idea. The reason for the penalties is to encourage IRA investors to keep their investment intact, and for the purpose for which it was intended. Your retirement and, of course, as one of the best easily available tax shelter programs. However, you can "borrow" IRA funds temporarily and we stress the word temporarily. There are two big strings attached: First, you must redeposit the borrowed funds within 60 days of withdrawal and you must file a simple form, number 1089R, available from your IRA custodian. Second, you can only have one interest-free loan from your IRA.

Water rates for fire protection to change

The Illinois Commerce Commission has ordered nine Illinois water companies, which have public fire protection rates, to implement changes in those rates. Illinois-American Water Co. is among those affected.

The commission's order resulted from the passage of Public Act 83-1285 which becomes effective July 1, 1985. Under this act no municipality or fire protection district can be

Farm Bureau sponsors cash marketing seminar

The Madison County Farm Bureau Marketing Committee is offering a workshop that is designed for the farmer who wants to develop basic cash marketing techniques.

It will be presented Tuesday, Jan. 22, starting at 10 a.m., in the Farm Bureau building, 900 Illinois Ave., Edwardsville. A second session will be conducted Jan. 31, beginning at the same time.

The workshop teaches the "nuts-and-bolts" of cash marketing. Farmers first figure cost of production on a per bushel or per hundred-weight basis. They then figure cost of living. In addition, farmers figure costs for the comforts of life as well as dreams. Costs are applied, then compared with a cash price chart. Workshop attendees determine when to sell or not sell.

Cost for the workshop is $29 per farm operation. Deadline for registration is Jan. 15. To register, interested persons may call the Farm Bureau office at 1-658-5191.

charged directly for water service used in public fire protection unless there is an agreement between the unit of government providing the fire protection and the utility which provides the water service.

In accordance with the act, the commission also ordered the utilities to determine the costs associated with providing fire protection water service and assign them in the form of charges to all customers, at a rate based upon meter size. This action is required to ensure that revenues which were formerly provided by the local fire protection unit are properly assigned to households and businesses benefiting from the water service used in fire protection.

The commission also ordered the water utilities to file a cost-of-service study when they next request a rate increase. The cost-of-service study is designed to clearly identify the full range of costs arising from the provision of water service associated with fire protection.

The other water utilities are Cedar Point Water Company, Cities Water Company, Douglas Water Company, Inc., Inter-State Water Corporation, Kankakee Water Corporation, Lincoln Water Corporation, Northern Illinois Water Corporation and South Beloit Water, Gas and Electric Company.

As a result of this order, existing public fire protection rates will be permanently cancelled upon commission approval or on July 1, 1985, whichever occurs first.

Man attempts to get into dwelling

A man wearing a multi-colored ski mask threatened a woman in an attempt to get inside an apartment in Kirkpatrick Homes, she reported last week.

After answering a knock, the woman opened the storm door slightly to find a man standing there, who said he knew her husband was at work and threatened to come inside and rape her, she reported. She slammed the door shut and the man banged on the door before running across a field toward Propes Avenue.

The would-be assailant had a deep voice, dark eyes and was in his mid-20s. He was 6 feet, 2 inches tall, weighed about 195 pounds and was wearing a red plaid CPO jacket and jeans, in addition to the ski mask.

Village officials show negative reactions to cable TV rate hike

By SUSANNE INDELICATO

Members of the Pontoon Beach Village Board of Trustees were less than enthusiastic last week, when presented with an explanation for the proposed rate hike by South-Western Cable TV, Ltd., General Manager Lon Carruth.

Carruth told the board that South-Western is seeking a 1% increase in its basic service rates so that the cable company can "try to catch up with some of the costs we have been absorbing for the past three years."

THE CABLE television company last received an increase in February 1982. The increase in rates, Carruth explained, would bring local cable TV rates in line with those of South-Western customers in Highland, Caseyville and Maryville are paying. The hike also is being sought in Granite City.

To make the rate increase more palatable, Carruth said, the cable company plans to add two additional channels to the basic service line-up. Plans call for adding the C-Span channel (a regional news service and U.S. House of Representatives monitoring program) to the basic service, with the other channel to be determined later.

"We'd like to see what the public desires," Carruth commented about the second channel. "We have received some requests. We'd like to get a consensus of the area before deciding on the channel."

ALTHOUGH South-Western Cable TV is requesting a 12% percent rate hike in basic service, the company is allowed an automatic 5 percent increase effective last Dec. 29 due to the federal Cable Telecommunications Act signed into law last October.

Carruth said the automatic increase, however, is not enough to cover the costs the cable company has had to absorb. He feels the 12% percent increase is more reasonable.

Village Board President Glen Wilson asked Carruth why South-Western needs the increase now that most of the cable installation has been completed.

CARRUTH ANSWERED that increasing costs for operation, maintenance and future construction have increased. He noted that the company's labor contract with some employees provides for more than a 12% percent increase in wages in 1985.

Trustee Louis Whitsell responded that many union laborers in the country are taking cuts or agreeing to wage freezes because of the economy. He then questioned the Cable Telecommunications Act's ability to take away the authority municipalities have over cable TV companies.

Carruth informed him that the act provides that municipalities will have no authority over cable TV companies after Dec. 29, 1986. He added that if the rate increase request is denied this year and if South-Western "can't get a reasonable return, then we'll be forced to reduce the level of service."

WILSON COUNTERED that many Pontoon Beach residents lose their cable service when it rains. Carruth said the cable service could cut out during a severe downpour, but Wilson disagreed, charging that the service goes out "even if it clouds up a little."

In addition to the $1 increase, South-Western Cable is seeking a 75-cent increase in each of its premium, or movie, rates. Should the increase be granted, Carruth noted, it would go into effect March 1, and cable company officials hope to hold to the new rate for another two years.

Village attorney Keith Jensen asked Carruth if the request was negotiable. "Would you be willing to subtract some channels to leave the rate the same?"

CARRUTH ANSWERED, "No." Village board members tabled the request so that the trustees could study the issue and review a profit-and-loss statement from South-Western Cable.

In other business Tuesday, the trustees agreed to a request from Chouteau Township Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks for a loan from Community Development discretionary funds.

SPARKS HAS contacted area officials seeking their permission to borrow $14,500 from the discretionary funds so that a drainage project along Lakeview Drive may be completed this year in conjunction with a similar drainage project on Rapid Road.

If all local officials in District 2 agree to the loan, Chouteau Township will use its allotted amount of next year's funds to pay the loan back to the discretionary fund.

Should the loan be denied, Sparks said, the drainage project on Lakeview Drive will have to be put aside until the township receives more funds.

Telethon for Cerebral Palsy airs Jan. 21

On Monday, Jan. 21, KTVI, Channel 2, St. Louis, will host its seventh annual network "Weekend With the Stars Telethon for Cerebral Palsy." The program, which begins at 10:30 p.m., will run for 21 continuous hours.

The telethon, featuring a host of television and sport celebrities will be hosted by John Ritter, star of ABC's new sitcom, "Three's a Crowd." Henry Winkler will assist as anchor from Hollywood, while Dennis James and Florence Henderson anchor in New York.

Local segments will again be hosted by Jann Tracy and Mike Sampedro. KTVI's resident "Four Magazine" team, Area sports and media personalities will be on hand to assist. Local cut-ins will enable viewers to see many of the services offered by their local UICP affiliate.

Last year the telethon raised more than $15 million dollars to fund research and community services relating to the disabling condition that affects 700,000 Americans and some 10,000 newborn babies annually.

Phone sites will be available to take pledges in the Channel 2 viewing area. Donations this year will help United Cerebral Palsy of Southern Illinois expand its social service programs and also the speech program.

Nicol manages the Metro-East regional office, located at 1506 Johnson Road.

The awards dinner was conducted during the holiday season at the Heritage House Restaurant in St. Louis County. Among the Quad-City area residents cited for "excellent performance and persistence" were Phyllis Abbott, Dan Adamson, Robert R. Cowan, Maxwell Forbes, Pete Kasacki, Edwin Papp and Kevin Sykes.

Special awards also were presented to Robert B. Cowan, Gaye Flood and Doris Nicol "for their support and assistance in establishing the new Metro-East office here," Nicol said.

The evening's top honors went to division leaders Robert R. Cowan, who received the "Standards of Excellence" and "Manager of the Year" awards, and Lawrence J. Crabbs of Alton, "Most Valuable Person" award.

Dan Adamson of Granite City, district leader, and Craig Billner of Collinsville, sales leader, were named "Rookies of the Year."

Nicol recently was honored as one of the firm's national vice presidents at the firm's national convention in Boca Raton, Fla. He was the recipient of a special plaque from the region, which marked his achievements within the company.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Let's assume you support your husband while he attends medical school, or some other professional school, and then he leaves you for another woman a few years after he begins his practice. Should you be given an interest in his future earnings or merely be awarded property based on his present worth at the time of the divorce? From a legal standpoint, the question which is asked in these cases is whether the husband's professional degree and license to practice his profession are "marital property" to be divided between the spouses.

Apparently the California Supreme Court, recently ruled in favor of the wife in this situation. This case involved a woman who worked as an accountant for ten years of marriage while her husband attended medical school. When he sought a divorce, she asked for, and was awarded, a share of her former husband's future earnings.

Illinois Courts recently faced a similar question but reached an opposite result. In a case decided in October of 1984, a woman who put her husband through the Chicago College of Osteopathic Medicine for four years, was told by the Court to find that she had a "property interest" in his degree and license to practice surgery. At the time of the divorce, the husband was just ready to enter the job market as an orthopedic surgeon. He had not yet made the substantial amounts of money he would undoubtedly make in the future, and at the time of the divorce, their marital estate was valued at $120,000. The wife here attempted to show the trial court the future increased value of the husband's earnings as a result of his advanced degree and license. She wanted to demonstrate to the trial judge the difference between what her husband would have made with only a bachelor's degree compared to what he could make as a physician. She claimed that this amounted to a $1,172,000 differential, and that this sum was "marital property" of which she should be awarded a portion for putting him through school.

The trial court disagreed and awarded her 62% of the $120,000 marital estate. The Appellate Court affirmed this award and noted that the trial court had properly taken into consideration the husband's greater earning potential and the wife's willingness to put him through school in awarding her a larger share of the present marital estate. It was decided she was entitled to a percentage of his future earnings.

INGROWN NAILS

Nails are actually normal extensions of the skin which grow outward from a portion called the matrix. The matrix can be called the root of the nail. Toenails grow at one-third to one-half the rate of fingernails. Toenails serve no real function as do fingernails. The most common disorder which causes pain or other difficulties is ingrown nails.

Ingrown nails is a common condition at all ages affecting men and women equally. They occur when the free edge of the nails grows into and through the skin instead of just alongside it. They may be caused by injury, tight shoes, improper nail cutting or heredity. The skin around the nail often becomes thickened, inflamed, extremely painful, and infected with a clear or colored discharge. Any sore may be involved; however it is usually the big toe. In mild cases the ingrown part can be painlessly removed by a foot specialist and medication provided to clear up the infection. In more severe cases in which the problem keeps occurring over and over there is a painless procedure performed in the office to correct this condition. The ingrown portion of the nail is removed and repaired so it will not return. The remaining nail grows normally with no discomfort. Over the counter preparations should not be used when the toe is infected. Cutting a "V" in the nail has little or no value in this condition. It only serves to bring stockings or hose which can then damage more of the nail. Another popular misconception is that nails should be cut straight across. This is not true. Nails do not grow straight across but grow rounded at the corners and should be trimmed that way. The important thing is not to trim them too short. Proper trimming will help prevent ingrown toenails.

Warriors flog Flyers; still undefeated in SWC

Cant Is Best Ever; Pours In 26 Points

By CHARLIE SKAER
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Take note: the Granite City Warriors are maturing. No longer can a team shut down hotting guard Jeff Gray and expect to win. Now there's more.

Granite City center-forward, 6-foot 5-inch senior Scott Cant proved himself Friday night against the East St. Louis Flyers, grabbing rebounds and putting in baskets for a career-high 26 points.

"Scott (Cant) got the confidence he needed tonight," said Granite City coach Don Deterding. "I was talking with assistant coach Jack Parker who had coached him at North and we both agreed that this is the best he's ever played for either one of us."

Gray, who is accustomed to the top spot, followed with a respectable 18 points. Once again, most of his points were scored from deadly shots in the corner and near the key.

The Warriors followed their Southwestern Conference victory Friday with a 84-38 slaughter over Roxana Saturday night. Cant and Gray led the scoring with 18 point each.

Despite Deterding's happiness with Cant's help in the scoring department, the Warrior coach was quick to point out that scoring isn't everything a team needs. Other players have matured, too.

"I WAS really pleased with my little point guard Joe Gray," said Deterding. "He did well in directing the team like he was supposed to."

The leadership role is one that scorer, but he's a team leader. He's coming on and taking control."

THE WARRIORS waited a quarter before coming in and taking control Saturday. East St. Louis pulled out to a 16-10 lead after the first quarter before the Flyers folded under the pressure of the Granite City press.

"Scott got the confidence he needed tonight. I was talking with assistant coach Jack Parker who had coached him at North and we both agreed that this is the best he's ever played for either one of us."

Don Deterding
Warrior basketball coach

Deterding is glad Joe Gray has accepted, for the junior had apparently wanted to imitate his older brother at the start of the year.

"Earlier in the season, he wanted to score," said Deterding. "He wanted to get his 10 or 12 points a game. But that's not his responsibility."

"He's never going to be a high

East St. Louis coughed up the ball seven out of 16 possessions in the quarter.

Granite City, meanwhile, picked up the scoring pace with quick points on layups by Cant and outside shots by Jeff Gray. The Warriors went down at half with a 29-23 lead. Cant and Gray accounted for 23 of the team's 29 points.

"The only time I was satisfied with the defense was in the second quarter," admitted Deterding. "WE WEREN'T had the rest of the game, but we just didn't play with the spark we wanted to."

Instead of continuing with the offensive climb, the Warriors found East St. Louis constantly at their throats. The Flyers battled back to a 37-35 deficit before Granite City forced two key turnovers and upped the score to 41-35. Cant hit a close shot in the final two seconds of the third quarter to give the Warriors a 43-35 lead going into the final stanza.

The basket was the only one for Cant in the third quarter, as he missed on six other shots inside the lane. Cant's irritation at himself was obvious.

"SOOTY IS often his own worst enemy," said Deterding. "If he misses one, he'd get mad at himself. But he's maturing."

The senior helped put the game out of reach, as he led the team with nine points in the final quarter.

The win improved the Warriors to 4-0 in the conference, an undefeated status that has been a long time in the making for Deterding.

"I can't remember it being this good since I've been around," said Deterding. "But three out of the four wins have been at home. That makes a difference."

Granite City improved their overall record Saturday to 9-5 with a 84-38 massacre at Roxana. Four players for Granite City made it to double figures: Cant and Jeff Gray with 18 each, Don Stevanus with 13 and Kurt Hylla with 10.

The Warriors' next opponent will be Hillsboro in a contest set for Friday at Granite City.

Lancers edge Warrior girls

By AL BARNES
of the Press-Record

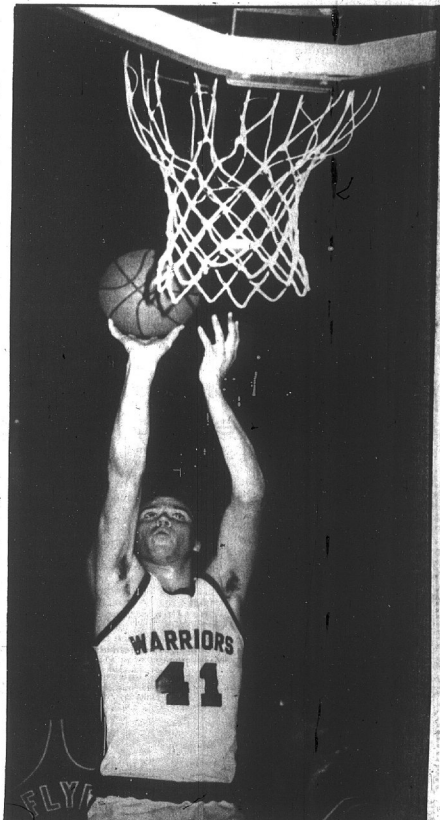

"When you live by the gun, you die by the gun," the old western saying has it.

And, another old saying has it: a good big player will beat a good smaller player.

Both of those hoary truisms worked out last Thursday night to the disadvantage of Coach Gordon Gilmer and his Granite City High school girls' varsity basketball team.

Granite City lost a heartbreaker, 52-50, to Belleville East in a nailbiting overtime cage classic of a sort.

The game turned out to be a shootout between Granite City's little Alicia (The Gunner) Melton and the Lancers' tall, elongated Sue Gilmer. Through three-thirds of the game, the classy shooting Melton had all the best of it, but in the last three minutes she went ice cold and couldn't buy a basket, while Belleville's Gilmer made four in a row, including the single goal in the overtime period to win the game.

Gilmer edged the touch-playing Melton for game scoring honors with 28 points. The Gunner poured in 24 points. Their duel had the crowd on its collective feet all through the game.

Granite City appeared headed for a blowout when it took a 27-22 lead at the intermission and zoomed on to further into the lead by outscoring the Lancers, 12 to nine in the third quarter.

It was in the third period that Granite City's coach, Galbreath and Belleville's veteran of 10 years, Jim McHaney, put on shows that would do credit to Indiana University's Bobby Knight. Not complaining at the officials, but verbally exhorting their players to greater efforts. It was a good game.

Tonight, Granite City will host Madison in a 6 p.m. contest.

Saturday Night NEMSU battles past SIUE

By AL BARNES
of the Press-Record

EDWARDSVILLE — Coach Larry Graham's Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville basketball team, with just 5:31 to go in its game Saturday night with the Bulldogs of Northeast Missouri State, appeared headed for the Cougars' fourth victory against 12 defeats.

At that point, SIUE led, 48-41, and the Cougars looked like they were ready to finish off Northeast for the first time in 10 games.

However, at this point, the bulldogs' little point guard, Jimmy Gooden, took charge, literally.

Gooden hit 10 of Northeast's 14 points in that winning rally. At the same time, SIUE was held scoreless until, with just four seconds remaining on the clock, the Cougars' new starter, Dave Woolley of Wood River, stole a loose ball and blazed down to score on a layup to narrow the Bulldogs' lead winning margin to 55-52.

The Cougars' Dave Jones, a Brentwood High (Mo.) native, paced the SIUE attack and led all game scorers, with 13 points. Madison's Kenny Stanley was held to his lowest per game average since breaking in to the SIUE lineup two weeks ago, 10 points. It was obvious from the start that the visitors' defense was "keyin" on the smooth-playing Stanley. And, in addition, he had one of those "off nights" that many good shooters have every once and in awhile.

Junior college transfer, Eric Harris, paced the Bulldogs' attack with 12 points, but just behind was Gooden and Greg Gordon with 10 each.

And, again as they have in all but two games, the Cougars led at the half, 24 to 22. The Cougars, too, lost again at the free throw line, making good on just eight of 12 chances while Northeast came through with 11 of 18.

In the last half, SIUE failed to make good on six of its one and one tries. Tonight, the Cougars will host the University of Missouri, St. Louis Rivermen in a 7:30 game. USML beat Northeast by one point early in the year.

Friday, Saturday GCHS matmen whip Lancers, but lose to Francis Howell

By JOE THOMPSON
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — In what marked their first Southwestern Conference meet since rejoining the SWC this season after a lengthy absence, the Granite City High Warriors wrestling team showed it hasn't lost its winning touch.

The Warriors thumped the Lancers of Belleville East here Friday, 32-19.

It might seem only fitting the Lancers proved victims in the Warriors' return SWC meet. The last time the two teams squared off in conference play was the Southwestern Conference championship tournament more than a decade ago. The two squads fought to a standoff.

The tie marked the only SWC demise the Warriors had previously suffered under their coach Bill "Red" Schmitt.

The Warriors left the SWC after that season. They had won all the SWC titles before that under Schmitt. That represents a lot of title triumphs.

The Warriors' victory Friday has no bearing on who will win the SWC crown this season, however. The SWC title will be determined by a conference tournament later in the year.

What was significant about Friday's triumph, however, is the Lancers had finished a notch ahead of the Warriors in the recent Granite City Holiday tournament. The Lancers grabbed the fourth position from the Warriors in what some viewed as an upset.

ASKED if his team might have been motivated by finishing behind the Lancers in the Holiday tournament, Schmitt remarked, "I hope so."

The Warriors did some more thumping over the weekend. More specifically, it was the Warriors' heavyweight, Chris Greer, who applied the crunch, and it cost the Warriors a victory Saturday against highly-touted Francis Howell at Francis Howell.

Greer, with the Warriors trailing by a slim 25-22 margin, administered what Schmitt termed, a "back heel," to his opponent, Joe Habay in the first period in the final match of the night.

Greer's maneuver sent Habay backwards onto the mat. Habay's head struck with such force he was knocked out. Greer was penalized for unnecessary roughness. When Habay declared he was unable to continue after regaining consciousness, he was awarded the victory.

The match thus went to once-beaten Francis Howell.

IT WAS an unfortunate turn of events for the Warriors. Greer, before knocking his opponent out, had been dominating him, Schmitt believed.

"It looked like we were going to beat them 29-23," said Schmitt. "Greer was going to pin the guy. Then the roof fell out."

"It happened," said Schmitt. "We should've won, but we didn't."

Asked his feelings about the official's decision to penalize Greer, Schmitt said, "I was pretty upset about it. Let it go at that."

THE WARRIORS came away short-changed in two other bouts when Mark Whitaker (145) and Darrin Clutts (167) both were awarded draws. Whitaker and Francis Howell's Chad Willey fought to a 1-1 tie while Clutts and his opponent, John Platt, scrambled for a 10-10 draw.

Schmitt said he believed Whitaker and Clutts both held the upper hand.

The loss lowered the Warriors' dual meet record to 18-2.

Not all action was on the mats for the Warriors. In what Schmitt described as a "jolt," the Warriors lost Tracy Morrison (112) for the season. Morrison fractured his elbow in an accident at home last week, Schmitt said. He had turned in a 9-1 record.

GOOD NEWS, however, is that Vince Slecka (126) and Steve Knigi (167) have received medical clearance to return to the squad.

Slecka, a returning letterman, had been out since the beginning of the season with a dislocated shoulder.

Knigi had posted a 5-0 record before being sidelined with a dislocated elbow.

"One of those two could help us," said Schmitt.

Unlike the costly twist of events Saturday night, there were no catastrophic happenings for the Warriors in their victory over Belleville East Friday night before one of the largest crowds of the season.

THE ROOF didn't fall on the Warriors although there were, in the words of Schmitt, some "shaky" moments.

The quivering started in earnest after the Warriors' Jeff Wakeford (126), Jon Morgan (132), Tom Sparks (138) and Mark Whitaker (145) were defeated. The four setbacks, one by pin and three by decision, lifted the Lancers from the pits 15-2 deficit into a 19-15 lead with four bouts left.

That was the shaky part. The good part, for the Warriors, is they won the remaining four matches.

MIKE FENOLIO (167) scored a superior decision (14-1) over Jay Wagner. Darrin Clutts (167) pinned (3-2-37). Jerry Baueisen and Tracy McElroy (185) rallied to an 8-7 victory over Rick Barrett. Barrett had been leading, 7-4, but two technical foul points were levied against him for illegally clapping his hands, enough to give McElroy the victory.

The three victories catapulted the Warriors into an insurmountable lead, 29-19.

Greer closed out the meet with a 2-0 decision over Scott Masse.

"A good one to win," said Schmitt. "Shaky but good."

THE WARRIORS had taken a big lead early in the match thanks to victories by Jeff Cotter (98), Richey Wilson (112), Brett Carner (119) and Jeff Wakeford (126) posted victories. Cotter was a 5-0 victor over Dennis Palmer. Carner decided John Talley, 7-1.

It was Wilson who supplied the most drama. Trailing 8-4 with seconds left in the second quarter, Wilson rallied to pin his opponent, Craig Schwab at 3-30.

Belleville East Coach Urban Baum lamented Schwab's inability to hold his head. "That hurt us," said Baum, whose Lancers slipped to 6-3-1 in dual meets. "Our kid (Schwab) got snickered, turned and didn't know how to hold his head for another 10 seconds, he probably would have squeaked out a three-point. We hoped to win that one and we didn't."

BUT THE Lancers appeared to have the Warriors on the run with their middle round bout dominance. Vince Blach (126) pinned the Warriors' Wakeford at 4-45. Steve Knoebel (132) scored an 18-0 superior decision over Morgan.

Scott Schmeidel (128), trailing the Warriors' Whitaker, 6-3.

It was at that point the Warriors marshaled their forces. Though victorious, Schmitt saw lots of room for improvement.

"WE'VE GOT a long way to go and a lot of wrestling ahead. Some of these guys are going to have to pick it up," said Schmitt, who bemoaned the Warriors' performances at the 105 (the Warriors' Darrin Singleton bested Jim Arendell to a 2-2 tie), 138 and 145 weight levels.

On Friday Red Devils dump comatose Assumption

By JAMES BLASINGAME
of the Press-Record

EAST ST. LOUIS — Assumption coach Greg King is frustrated. The odds have been against him since the season began. And while his Pioneers are beginning to show signs of life, they drifted back into their coma on Friday night with a 68-46 defeat by the Venice Red Devils.

King expected to enjoy a competitive, if not successful, season this year. But the loss of 12 players due to academic problems has forced him to rely on inexperienced sophomores and juniors. So far, the Pioneers are 2-9.

"AT THE beginning of the year, I thought we'd be good, but we lost those 12 because of grades," said King following Friday night's setback. "I'm not disillusioned, but it's tough. I guess every coach goes through this at one time or another."

The 22-point humbling at the hands of the Red Devils is not something that King wants to go through again. On last Friday night, Assumption was beaten by the Madison Trojans 62-49, and the Pioneer monitor expressed the identical sentiments after that defeat.

"THERE'S NO possible way we're going to beat Madison or Venice,"

King said. "We'd have to play a perfect game to beat them. I'm not knocking our kids, but we just don't have the talent to do it."

Had the Red Devils played more turnover-free basketball in the first half, Assumption's thrashing would have been much more severe. However, Venice committed 10 turnovers in the first quarter alone, and allowed the Pioneers to stay within striking distance, until a third-period 14-6 spurt by the Red Devils put the contest out of reach.

"WE MADE too many turnovers in the first half," said Venice coach Clinton Harris Jr. "We were rushing the ball down the floor instead of taking our time. Also, we kept trying to force the ball inside, and we'd throw it away."

Harris went on to point out that the reason his team suffered its second loss of the year, an 85-71 defeat at Vashon, was because his team didn't get good rebounding position. There was no problem with Venice's rebounding on Friday night. Red Devils Darren Wise and Charles Milton were cleaning the glass all game long.

"WE SCREENED off the boards and ran our offense well," said Harris. "Wise is the leading rebounder on the team. He had 12 rebounds tonight, and Milton was on the boards too. He had 10."

King credited Wise for doing an outstanding job of rebounding for the Devils.

"They have Wise rebounding. Our kids are tall, but they're not strong like him. He just pushed us around pretty good under there," said King.

Actually, the Devils pushed Assumption around in a few others areas also. A harassing, pressure defense and some hot outside shooting by Ed Ware and Victor Jackson kept the Pioneers from making a serious run at Venice.

"THAT'S THE best defense we've faced all year," said King. "Venice has been playing predominantly a man-to-man defense this season, but they came out in a half-court trap. We tried to make some adjustments at half time, but we've got two sophomores out front, and they just couldn't handle the pressure."

As for Ware's hot hand, the 6-foot 1-inch junior hasn't been hitting well of late, but he certainly found his range against the Pioneers.

"Ware hasn't had a good shooting game in the last five games," Harris said. "I told him to come in a few steps and take his time. He shot well for us in the second half."

WARE FINISHED in 15 points in the second half, most of which came from the 18-foot distance, and tallied 20 for the game. Jackson finished with 12. Sophomore standout Jesse Hall ripped the nets for 32 points on fast break buckets and on short jumpers that kept him levitating above the taller Pioneers.

"We were getting the fast break and hitting the layup and the five-foot jumper," said the Venice coach. "Nobody can run with us. With them being taller, they couldn't keep up with us."

"I was very disappointed with the first half, but in the second half, they (Venice players) made me happy — they made my day," Harris grinned.

IT MAY take some time before anybody makes King's day. Although it's been a tough fight for King and the Pioneers so far, the Assumption coach isn't going to throw in the towel. He'll keep coming out each time the bell rings, and hope his team gets stronger in the later rounds.

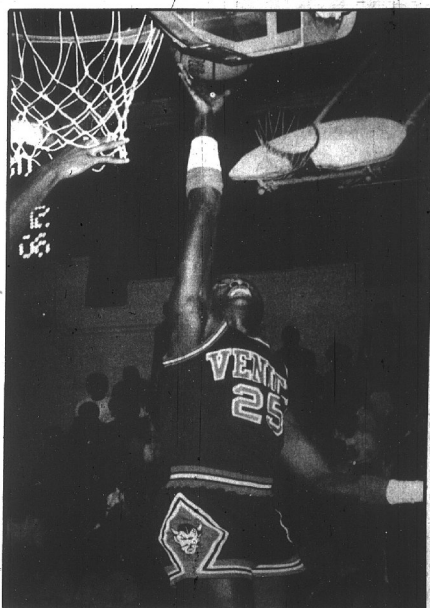

"With our talent, we're not going to win unless we play our best," King said. "All it takes is a 100 percent effort, and we're not giving a 100 percent effort...yet."

The Red Devils resume action on Tuesday when they play Highland in the Litchfield Winter Tourney.

Former SIUE Greats Flach and Seguso win world title

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

It was a real thrill covering the World Doubles Tennis Tournament championship final at the Royal Albert Hall court in London last week. By television, that is.

The eventual champions, Ken Flach and Bobby Seguso, stars in their undergraduate days at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville three years ago, were nothing less than brilliant.

They defeated the defending champions, Heinz Gunhardt and Balázs Taroczy, three sets to one: 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, 6-0.

Gunhardt and Taroczy had won the prestigious World Doubles meet crown two times running and are figured by many to be equal to the doubles team of Fleming and McEnroe.

The World doubles crown, plus the United States Clay Courts title last summer at Indianapolis, plus the Italian National championship early in 1983, give the Flach-Seguso Duo every right to be considered one of the world's best doubles tennis teams.

Each won $36,000 for their victory before 20,000 fans jammed into venerable Albert Hall. It's estimated they have won right at $200,000 each since turning pro and dropping out of school at SIUE three years ago.

Fred Stolle and John Drysdale, former Australian tennis stars who did the TV commentary on the match, were amazed at the high quality of Flach and Seguso's games. They breezed through the first set, 6-2, and lost just 21 points in all.

The second set was the best of the match for Gunhardt and Taroczy, who won, 6-3, but from then on, it was all Flach and Seguso. The third set went easily to the former Cougar stars, 6-3, with both of the 21-year-olds scoring repeated winners off of serve returns from their more experienced opponents.

The fourth and final set was a breeze for the Yankees as they won, 6-0, while giving up only eight points.

In 1948 An earlier Warrior win over Collinsville

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

Most Granite City high school basketball fans are still pinching themselves to keep from wakening up and finding it was all a dream. What was a dream? Why it was the Warriors of Coach Don Deterding's convincing 64-52 victory over the Collinsville Kahoks in their third game in the young Southwestern Illinois Conference race recently.

And, what's more, the victory came in that balliwicket of bedlam, the Vergil Fletcher gym in Collinsville.

On pre-season dope, one would have to consider it an upset for Granite City. Collinsville rarely loses on its home court.

But, those that saw the Warriors upset the Kahoks contend that it wasn't an upset, but just goes to show that Granite City's earlier victory over Belleville East and their Leaning Tower, Gary Leonard, wasn't a fluke at all.

But, speaking about upsets, one of the most startling involved these same two prep teams in the fall end of the 1947-48 season when Fletcher was just getting going toward setting his record of basketball achievements at Collinsville High.

As has been their almost sure habit of dominating prep polls locally and throughout the state, Collinsville came calling to Granite City for a Saturday night battle against Granite City on Feb. 21, 1948, sporting the best record in Illinois. The Kahoks had a 33-game winning streak going for them, while the Warriors were just barely able to stay around .500 ball.

Nevertheless, Granite City suddenly caught fire late in the 1947-48 season as the Warriors defeated bitter rival Madison High. And, going into the meeting with Collinsville, Coach Byron Bozarth did what he did best — he had the Warriors raring to go and believing they could beat anybody.

On a hunch and sensing a possible upset, this reporter was assigned to "cover" the game, which was played on the stage of the high school's auditorium. Back then high schools in the Midwest played their games on stage courts. Biggest in southern Illinois at the time was that at West Frankfort. In St. Louis, the three biggest were at Beaumont, Cleveland and Roosevelt.

The place was packed and no fire marshal would have permitted the game been played with so many people jam-packed in.

Faced by Joe (18 points) Martinez, Art (12 points) Borchers, Jerry (nine points) Schroeder, Frank (six points) Kraus, and Paul (three points) Sheridan, Bozarth's boys led at each of the four quarters.

Just to illustrate how Granite City had reversed things: On Jan. 16, at Collinsville, the Kahoks won easily by a 55-31 score.

Older Granite City fans got an added lift from the victory. For the first time, Collinsville's leather-lung fan, Elmer Hazzard, was smitten dumb for probably the only time in his long career cheering on the Kahoks. Elmer is now up there in the Hoopers' Heaven in the Sky. He reported the Collinsville High cage doings for many years for our sister paper, the Collinsville Herald.

This reporter was in an odd position. My family and I had just moved to Collinsville from north St. Louis, mid-way in the '48 season. However, professionally, I should have been non-partisan, but wasn't and ended up pulling for Granite City to pull one of the biggest cage upsets in this second of the Mid-West.

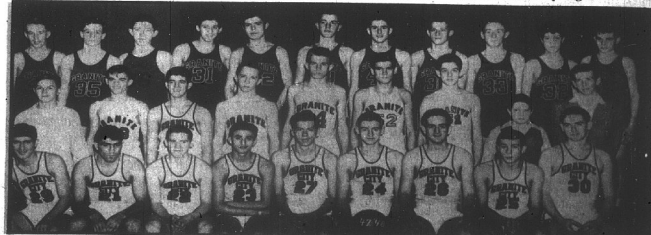

Most Collinsville fans blamed the loss on their shooting star, Sammy Miranda, fouling out midway through the third period. Sheridan, who is now a priest at Springfield, was assigned Miranda and held him to just nine points, a good 15 points under his per game average.

A key factor in the Warrior's upset victory was the rebounding of Borchers, with some key assists from Jerry Schroeder. Kraus' out-court shooting also loosened up the Kahoks' defense so that Martinez could drive in for lay ups.

Stars for the Kahoks, in addition to Miranda, were Ray Sonnenberg, Norman Schaefer, J. D. Anderson and Jim Ray. Miranda and Sonnenberg went on to earn All-American honors in college. Sammy at Indiana and Ray at St. Louis University.

Kraus and Borchers, both three-sports standouts (football, basketball and baseball) were stars on the Granite City High team which that (1948) spring won the Illinois State High School baseball championship under the coaching of the late Lawrence McCauley.

This reporter wishes to thank two of Collinsville's most avid basketball fans, Gus Soehle, and George Doggett, for their help in preparing this story of a startling prep cage upset back there in the spring of 1948.

Legislation to break pipeline monopolies backed by senators

In a move to hold down soaring home heating bills that now are free to head still higher with the lifting of most price controls Jan. 1, U.S. Senator Paul Simon said he and Sen. Alan Dixon will introduce legislation to break the monopoly that pipeline companies have on natural gas sales.

Simon announced the plan in the wake of natural gas price decontrol, which he fought in the House. Most remaining price controls were lifted at midnight, Dec. 31.

Savings to consumers would vary from region to region, but in Simon's home state of Illinois the measure could save from 10 to 20 percent on home heating bills according to Illinois Commerce Commission Chairman Phillip O'Connor, who worked with Simon and other Illinois legislators in advancing the "common carriage" concept that Simon's bill would implement. The bill would cut home heating bills by forcing pipeline companies to transport cheaper gas to their customers by allowing users and producers of natural gas to bargain directly with each other and not through the pipeline middlemen.

Simon was chief Democratic sponsor of similar legislation in the 98th Congress, and Dixon pushed the plan during Senate debate on natural gas policy. The bill had wide bipartisan support within the Illinois congressional delegation.

"By monopolizing the pipelines, a few companies have thwarted normal market forces and deprived consumers of access to cheap gas," said Simon. "It's a major reason ratepayers have been paying more, even though supplies have been growing."

Many pipeline companies currently buy expensive foreign gas and "deep gas" rather than much cheaper U.S. gas. They then pass on the higher costs to consumers.

"Federal price controls on all but 'old gas' expired Jan. 1. Without reform of the pipeline system, some gas industry analysts predict a 14 to 17 percent increase in home heating bills in 1985."

"We lost the battle to keep controls on gas prices, but the fight for fair utility rates goes on," Simon said. He will file testimony with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) in support of his bill. FERC has requested public testimony on proposals to regulate the gas pipeline industry in the wake of decontrol of natural gas prices. Under Simon's legislation, pipeline companies would become common carriers, like railroads, and would be required to transport domestic gas purchased directly by utilities. Utilities would be allowed to shop for the lowest-priced gas from among thousands of producers, thus lowering home heating bills for consumers. O'Connor estimates a savings of $175 per household in Springfield or Peoria, for example, and $100 for a typical household in Rock Island.

Pipeline companies would continue to be able to make a profit, but the profits would have to be reasonable, controlled by state regulatory agencies.

Simon said there are 15,000 gas producers or gas sellers, but only 23 major interstate pipeline companies, or gas buyers. Despite the glut of gas producers, local utilities typically have only one or two pipelines as suppliers of natural gas. Without legislation requiring pipelines to transport cheaper gas contracted directly from producers, utilities have little choice but to purchase the more expensive pipeline gas, and pass along the higher costs to consumers.

"No state has a greater stake in natural gas pricing than Illinois," said Simon, noting that 8.5 percent of Illinois households depend on gas for heat, a greater dependency than any other state.

Simon led an effort that placed a non-binding referendum on the ballots of 212 Illinois communities in the last election on the Natural Gas Consumer Relief Act, the leading natural gas price control legislation pending before the just-concluded 98th Congress. The measure was approved in all 212 communities, including Cook County, typically by margins of 10-to-one.

Free Glaucoma tests offered by Lions Club

The Mobile Glaucoma Screening Unit will be available to area residents on Monday, Jan. 21, when the unit will be at the Venice Lions Club, 322 Broadway, Venice. Testing will be done at this site from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Glaucoma is an eye disease marked by an increase in fluid pressure within the eyeball. If unchecked and untreated, that increase will damage the eye and can cause blindness.

The visual screening, which is administered free of charge, is done on Timus machines manned by Lions Club volunteers. The glaucoma screening is done by a licensed medical doctor, and ophthalmologist (medical eye specialist) furnished by the University of Illinois' Abraham Lincoln School of Medicine.

During the testing, anesthetic drops which do not dilate the pupils or affect vision, are administered by a nurse. Then the doctor measures the pressure within the eyeball in a fast, simple, painless procedure with an instrument called a tonometer.

If pressure is elevated, the person is urged to seek medical help immediately. Persons failing the visual acuity screening are urged to seek a complete eye examination from an ophthalmologist or an optometrist.

Funds for the screening come mostly from Candy Day, held statewide the second Friday of every October.

Museum renovation is in progress

Renovation work on the newly acquired Zippel home located at 3279 Maryville Road by the Old Six Mile Historical Society for use as a local museum, has started under the direction of Fred Stille, chairman of the building committee.

Stille estimates the work including redecorating will cost approximately $15,000.

Donations are being accepted for this improvement and as of this date the organization has been the recipient of about $1,400 earmarked for repairs and reconstruction of necessary area of the house and grounds.

The society is also accepting donations of period furniture relative to the era of the house.

Target date for the grand opening of the museum is set for May 18, according to Stille.

The Old Six Mile Historical Society was formally organized in May 1981 and since that time, much oral history has been collected through the use of tape recordings.

On Sept. 28, 1984, the society purchased the Zippel residence and in November and December 1984 a fund raising campaign was organized in hopes of retiring the mortgage on this historical property.

The dedication ceremony for the house and grounds was conducted on Sunday, Nov. 4, 1984, at the house. The soon to be museum was open for inspection to all who attended the event.

Regular monthly meetings of the society are held on the first Monday of each month at Central Christian Church, 2020 Johnson Road, and are open to the public, a spokesman for the group announces.

Education for employment links college, high school

Public hearings on the 1985 state plan for vocational education, which will incorporate the State Board of Education's new Education for Employment policy, are scheduled this month in Ina, LaSalle-Peru, Springfield and Glen Ellyn.

The plan, which also will include changes required by the new federal Carl D. Perkins Vocational Education Act, must be approved by the State Board and submitted to the federal government by May 1.

Regional information meetings on the new federal act and the state's new education for employment policy will precede each of the hearings.

Education for employment will enable schools to use resources more efficiently to meet students' needs and comply with the new federal law, a spokesman said.

Adopted by the board Dec. 13 after a two-year study the policy and plan provide for formation of regional delivery systems to provide vocational and technical education programs through consortia of high schools and area vocational centers in conjunction with existing community colleges.

The policy, which replaces the 1978 vocational education policy, stresses the board's commitment to supporting Education for Employment programs for the state's youth and adults and to providing programs that respond to changes in technology, the work force and the labor market.

The policy also stresses systematic plans for curriculum renewal, staff development and equipment modernization.

The administrative plan, which provides framework for implementing the policy, includes a multi-year schedule. By April 30, 1988, schools will have identified appropriate regions, developed agreements between secondary schools and colleges, and submitted local plans.

Under the federal law, U.S. funds may no longer be used to maintain local vocational education programs. Instead, money must be spent on programs for specific target populations, such as handicapped or disadvantaged students.

Funds also must be spent for program improvement, innovation and expansion in areas such as curriculum development or in-service education. With the new state policy and plan secondary schools and community colleges will be able to pool resources to provide the programs required by the federal law.

The schedule of regional meetings: Jan. 16 in the Rend Lake College Theater, Ina, Jan. 18 in the Sheraton Inn Western Reserve Room, Springfield; Monday, Jan. 21, in the Illinois Valley Community College Cultural Center, LaSalle-Peru; and Tuesday, Jan. 29, in the College of DuPage Student Resource Building, Room 1024, Glen Ellyn. Each meeting will be from 10:30 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. At 1:30, the State Board staff will conduct public hearings and answer questions on education for employment.

ADOPT US. Kit and Kaboodle, male and female 4-month-old kittens, are available for adoption at the APA Shelter, 5000 Old Alton Road. ## Distribution of 'Silver Pages' to seniors begins

Illinois Secretary of State Jim Edgar announced Thursday that his office cooperated with Southwestern Bell Media to provide a "Silver Pages" senior citizen discount directory for St. Louis area residents age 60 and older.

Edgar said that distribution of a "Silver Pages" directory for the St. Louis area, including Madison and St. Clair Counties, began Friday.

"By informing citizens age 60 and older of businesses that provide them special discounts and offers, the 'Silver Pages' will help seniors, who are often living on low fixed incomes, stretch their budgets," Edgar said.

The "Silver Pages" directory will include a list of local businesses that provide discounts or special offers to customers age 60 and older. The directory includes an information and referral section providing a comprehensive list of local, state and federal programs and services for senior citizens. Edgar said the department of Senior Citizens and Human Resources in the Secretary of State's office participated in the project by assisting in the compilation of the information and referral section of the directory.

The directory will be distributed to all senior citizens who obtain a free "Silver Savers" Passport," an identification card that will qualify the seniors for the discounts and special offers provided by participating businesses. Applications for "Silver Savers" Passports are available at numerous locations including senior centers and drivers license facilities throughout the area.

"This isn't the first time a discount directory for seniors has been proposed in Illinois," Edgar said. "However, it is the first time that the public and private sectors have worked together to make the directory a reality."

In addition to Illinois, Southwestern Bell Media now has agreements to provide "Silver Savers" Passports and "Silver Pages" directories with the states of Missouri, New Jersey, Ohio and Oklahoma, as well as 50 local Area Agencies on Aging across the country.

"The Secretary of State's office is also participating in the preparation of two 'Silver Pages' directories for the Chicago area, which are scheduled to be published next fall," Edgar said.

"Through the Department of Senior Citizens and Human Resources, the Secretary of State's office has initiated numerous programs to help seniors and disabled citizens preserve their independence by helping them obtain or maintain their drivers licenses," Edgar said.

"Our participation in this program will enable us to help seniors preserve their economic independence by informing them of the special offers and discounts that more and more businesses are providing this rapidly growing segment of our population," he added.

General information about the "Silver Pages" program can be obtained by calling toll free 1-800-252-6666.

Vadalabene sponsored bills go into effect

Senator Sam Vadalabene (D-56th District) is reminding Illinois citizens that three hazardous waste bills, co-sponsored, became effective Jan. 1.

Among those laws are measures to increase the permit and inspection fees for hazardous waste; annual testing of private wells within one-half mile of landfills; and a state and county authority to recover attorney's fees and court costs in hazardous waste litigation.

Other laws the senator reported include: a 50 percent reduction in vehicle registration fees for disabled citizens and senior citizens more than 65 years of age; and income tax legislation that provides greater protection and influence for the victims of violent crimes.

Air Force seeking officers

The Air Force is looking for people with technical expertise to become commissioned Air Force officers, according to Captain Neil Hanson, chief of the Air Force Officer Training School Recruiting Branch.

According to Captain Hanson, the Air Force is specifically looking for people with technically-oriented degrees to become officers in the satellite operations, communications-electronics, computer science and meteorology fields. Other fields are available for well-qualified individuals on a case-by-case basis.

Aside from an excellent salary, rapid advancement and one of the best employment packages in the nation, Air Force officers are thrust into a level of management responsibility uncommon in today's job market, Hanson said.

In addition, Air Force technical officers work with some of the most advanced technology available, according to Capt. Hanson.

More information concerning Air Force technical opportunities is available from Capt. Hanson by calling him at 1-314-263-0237 (collect) or by local Air Force recruiting representative.

State plan helps locate missing Illinois boy, 9

The state's new I-SEARCH program has succeeded in recovering a 9-year-old Illinois child, missing from his home for more than 17 months.

"The happy conclusion of this case," Gov. James R. Thompson said Thursday, "Demonstrates that I-SEARCH can bring the appropriate law enforcement agencies together to locate missing children. It is an excellent example of how critical information, relayed promptly to the appropriate police, will help resolve these cases in Illinois."

"The efforts of I-Search, state and local law enforcement agencies and the Los Angeles police were responsible for locating Mark Daniel Force, abducted by his non-custodial mother in July 1983. The child was returned to his father, Mark A. Force, in Virginia, Ill., this month."

William Doster, director of the Department of Law Enforcement's Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI), said the search extended into California, Florida, Idaho, Ohio and Texas and involved the cooperation of the FBI, IRS, U.S. Postal Service and Social Security Administration, as well as private sector resources, such as the Crime Prevention Institute.

The case was brought to the attention of I-Search personnel Oct. 15 by Donna Jean Porre, grandmother of the missing child. Mrs. Porre had attended a public meeting held in Jacksonville the previous day to promote the new I-SEARCH program.

Mark was abducted from his father's home July 14, 1983. By the time Mrs. Force asked I-SEARCH officials for help, he had been missing for 15 months.

Later, the FBI, Cass County sheriff and Virginia, Ill. police were already involved in the investigation and state and federal warrants had been issued.

I-Search sought the assistance of the DCI, assigning the case to Special Agent Terry Wubker, son of Cass County Sheriff Carl Wubker. DCI then sought cooperation from agencies such as the FBI.

Information gathered indicated that Mark and his mother might be living in Los Angeles. DCI contacted the LA police and Detective Ron Tuckett of the Fugitive Squad was assigned to the case. Tuckett discovered they were in the area but were constantly changing addresses, moving between the residences of friends and relatives.

Tuckett pressed for the return of the child to Illinois through her contacts, who had provided positive identification. On New Year's Day, under pressure from Tuckett and the LAPD, April Coats contacted Mark's grandmother to arrange for the child's return. On Jan. 2, Mark Force returned home.

Thompson signed legislation creating the I-Search program last summer. Through I-Search, the Department of Law Enforcement maintains the Law Enforcement Agencies Data System (LEADS), a computer network used to compile missing children reports and distribute them regionally and across the nation.

It established a uniform reporting format and outlined specific steps to be taken in response to a missing child report. The program has been fully funded and operating since Jan. 1.

Georgeff retires from county post

Former Granite City resident Tony Georgeff has retired as Montgomery County superintendent of highways, a position he has held for 18 years.

Georgeff was only 9 months old when he became a Granite City resident, moving from the area 18 years ago to live in Hillsboro, Ill. His mother, Tasha Georgeff, and sister, Venka Ambush, still reside in Granite City.

Georgeff was named Montgomery County highway superintendent in November 1966. Although now retired, he remains active with committee work for the Illinois Association of County Superintendents of Highways, of which he is president, vice president and secretary.

Georgeff's wife, Lois, has been a part-time bookkeeper for the highway department, and she, also, retired with her husband.

Heard in Granite City, Georgeff served with the 81st Engineering Battalion, 106th Infantry, during World War II and graduated in 1947 with a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from the University of Wyoming.

He was involved in the construction of the Chain Rock Locks from 1948 to 1951, was structural estimator and superintendent for F.H. McGraw, Inc., contractors from 1951 to 1953, and built hangars for B-52 bombers for International Steel Co. for a year before joining Hurst-Rosche Engineers in Hillsboro in 1956.

He was design engineer for that firm for 10 years and held the same position with George H. Knostman Associates in Hillsboro for six months before being appointed as Montgomery County highway superintendent.

In addition to his job-related activities, Georgeff has been a member of the Illinois and National Societies of Professional Engineers, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Moose Lodge, Hillsboro Country Club and First United Presbyterian Church of Hillsboro.

Arthur Loebach succeeds Georgeff as highway superintendent.

Exploratory leave rejected

A proposed year-long exploratory leave of absence was rejected by the Granite City Board of Education last week.

The board cited contractual and policy reasons. James Webb, a custodian at Frohardt and Parkview elementary schools, had sought to spend the next 12 months working for schools in Missouri.

An illness leave of absence was approved for Emily Bone, a Granite City High School cafeteria employee. The leave will last from Dec. 18, 1984, to Aug. 18, 1985.

Janine Cooper, a Wilson Elementary School teaching assistant for behavioral disorder pupils, resigned effective Jan. 2, 1985. She will attend Southwest Missouri State University and plans to become a teacher.

The Mitchell Elementary School Parent-Teacher Association is donating a copying machine for use at that school, and the Parkview Elementary PTA will replace the Parkview School copying machine with a larger copier.

Contributions to Prather Elementary School by the PTA include carpeting and its installation, worth a total of $1,500, for the kindergarten room, $325 worth of curtains and drapes for the Prather office, and an electronic thermometer and 3,000 covers, valued at a total of $450.

John Peilish, a citizen who has been critical of vocational shop facilities and school administrators, currently is seeking to have school salaries published rather than a listing of employees in salary-range categories.

The categories in yearly expenditure reports conform to Illinois School Code requirements set in 1982. Local and state officials say. The groups are: under $10,000, under $17,000, under $25,000, and $25,000 and over. City employees here have been listed by exact incomes, and Collinsville schools report in individuals' pay.

With the second public inauguration of President Ronald Reagan set for Monday, Jan. 20, outside the Capitol in Washington, 30 GCHS social studies and foreign policy students of Philip R. Shatto are completing plans to attend. The students raised funds by selling fruit, and parents assisted in meeting the cost of the weekend trip.

Tri-City Knights of Columbus were authorized to distribute information to elementary and junior high school pupils on basketball free throw competition to be conducted among boys and girls aged 11-14 at 9 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 26, at the KC hall, formerly Johnson School.

Tax aids available at the library

Many libraries have materials available to assist the public in filing out their federal income tax forms. They include cassette tapes, forms and publications.

The audio cassettes contain simple line-by-line instructions for filling out federal forms.

Commonly used federal tax forms and schedules can often be obtained in libraries. In addition, the less frequently used forms are available in Publication 1132, which contains more than 90 reproducible forms which can be copied.

Librarians also may have copies of the many IRS publications which are helpful when preparing individual or business tax returns.

Librarians should not be expected to serve as tax experts, the IRS stresses. They will, however, be able to direct taxpayers to these tax aids.

Willing Workers to mark 3rd year

The Willing Workers of America located at 154 Niedringhaus Ave., will observe their third anniversary at the next meeting on Jan. 26 at the YMCA beginning at 10 a.m.

Guest speaker will be Earl Tucker, independent candidate for Granite City Township Assessor. He will explain tax assessments and the process to follow in paying taxes under protest.

Shirley Blasingame from Venice Lincoln Technical Center will also speak during the session.

At an earlier meeting, Steve Ortiz, president of the group, presented Jerry Swatke a new director of the Y. He spoke on the need for an organization such as the YMCA in Granite City to help promote a sense of belonging and togetherness for both friends and family.

In response to a request of Swatke, members of the Willing Workers volunteered their assistance during a clean-up project at the local Y. Members also assisted at the Project Help Benefit dance, according to the president.

Ortiz extends an invitation to the public to attend the Jan. 26 session.

Police training to focus on juveniles

The Illinois Local Government Law Enforcement Officers Training Board, in cooperation with the Department of Children and Family Services, has provided $4,050 in grant funds to the Southwest Illinois Law Enforcement Commission mobile team in-service training unit, Assist 14, to conduct two two-day juvenile justice training programs for police line and police juvenile officers.

Purpose of these training sessions will be to upgrade and enhance law enforcement activities as they pertain to children and juveniles.

Areawide juvenile officers from Alton, Collinsville and Fairview Heights police and the St. Clair County sheriff's department assisted in the planning and will be part of the instructional staff.

The courses will be held at the Holiday Inn in Collinsville, with the juvenile justice program for line officers being conducted Jan. 22 and 23, and the juvenile officers' seminar to be on Feb. 26 and 27.

Topics to be discussed include child abuse, drug substance abuse, juvenile gangs, counseling techniques and the Illinois Juvenile Code.

Real estate tax bills may be sent in May

By JIM WOODCOCK

Madison County residents who recently paid the property tax bill due in 1984, take heed: Your tax bill in 1985 may be coming much sooner than you expected.

According to county officials at a tax cycle steering committee meeting, there is a good chance the 1985 tax bills will be mailed on time this year—in May.

If this occurs, the first installment would be due June 1 and the second payment Sept. 1.

Some county officials say those dates will probably shock residents who are not expecting to pay taxes again until late this year.

Tax bills did not go out until September in 1984; the second installment was not due until Nov. 26.

The prospect of tax bills in May is good news to officials, who have taken various measures to return the tax cycle back to its original schedule.

"If everything remains as it's moving along now, we'll be practically on target," said Evelyn Bowles, county clerk. There may be some unforeseen delays she said, but she thinks the bills can be mailed on schedule.

Many steps in the tax cycle are far ahead of last year.

The Illinois Department of Revenue has given the county a tentative multiplier of 1. Last year, the county did not receive the tentative multiplier until June 25.

"We received it Jan. 4. It's the earliest we've received the state's tentative multiplier in ages, and it's greater than 1," Miss Bowles said. "We can really rely on this thing this time."

The tentative 1.0 multiplier means the Board of Review that property is not over- or under-assessed. The tentative multiplier was determined from abstracts the Board of Review mailed the state.

Debbie Ming, chief deputy in the supervisor of assessments office, said the state's tentative multiplier may change before it does not have data for the county's six largest townships. That data will not be completed for 10 days.

She said there were quite a few assessment reductions in those townships due to decisions by the Board of Review. "So the 1 is questionable," she commented.

Miss Bowles said the advantage of receiving the tentative multiplier so early is that the county can begin figuring total valuations for townships, among other things.

The 18 smaller townships have been given tentative multipliers by the county. They hope the state will officially certify a 1.0 multiplier for the county after the tentative township multipliers are applied.

When the certified multiplier from the state is received, the county clerk's office can proceed with extension of taxes, followed by mailing of property tax bills.

County officials gave part of the credit for the improved tax cycle to the Board of Review, which completed its hearing of complaints on schedule last December.

In the previous tax cycle, the hearings continued well into 1984.

Board of Review member Shirley Voegelé said 5,568 hearings were completed. In some cases, the three-member panel had to consider as many as 10 parcels in one hearing.

The Board of Review is currently reviewing 93 appeals.

The board must fill the seat formerly held by Robert Harris, who recently became supervisor of assessments. County director of administration Mary Kane said the tentative date for a candidate examination is Feb. 1.

County Treasurer Mick Henkhaus said if the tax cycle proceeds at its current pace, the county will hold its annual delinquent tax sale March 4.

Grant received for training veterans

Nelson Hagnauer, Madison County Board chairman, has announced that Madison County has been awarded a grant of $100,000 for continuation of the Veterans' Employment and Training Service. This program is part of the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) passed by Congress in October 1982.

The program is operated by the Madison County Veterans Assistance Commission, in cooperation with the Madison County Employment and Training Department, through a subcontract with VOICES (Veterans' Outreach Investment Counseling and Education Services), a local, non-profit, community-based organization.

Veterans will continue to be provided with a comprehensive scope of services, including outreach, counseling in readjustment, VA benefits, vocation and education. Specifically, job development activities are targeted at providing 120 veterans with permanent, full-time employment, while 150 veterans will be placed in vocational training and on-the-job training programs. The additional grant will carry the veteran's program through May 1986.

To be eligible for these services, a participant must be a service-connected disabled veteran who applies within two months of separation from military service.

Veterans seeking assistance through this program are urged to contact the Madison County Veterans Assistance Commission. The commission is located at 101 Hillsboro Ave. (east entrance), Edwardsville. The telephone number is 1-602-6200, Extension 4554.

$8,000 raises for many judges

State pay raises—authorized on the final day of the concluding legislative session last week in Springfield—will mean a yearly pay hike for associate judges, from $40,000 to $48,000, for those whose new terms of office begin this month or later.

There are 10 associate judges in Madison County, appointed by the eight elected circuit judges.

Circuit judges starting new terms will get $75,000 a year instead of the previous $68,000.

State legislators are getting an increase in annual pay from $28,000 to $30,250 this year and then to $32,500 as of July 1985.

The pay of the governor is to be increased from $58,000 to $65,000, Supreme Court justices $75,000 to $85,000, appellate justices $70,000 to $80,000, statewide officeholders by 32 to 48 percent, and members of the governor's Cabinet, varying amounts ranging to $65,000.

The new State Compensation Review Board recommended the raises, and rejection by the Illinois Senate fell one vote short. The House later voted to reject the increases but this was negated by the Senate's inaction.

Patrick Quinn's Citizens for Political Honesty group is utilizing a lawsuit to oppose the pay raises. Gov. James R. Thompson has predicted the increases will be upheld in the courts.

Illinois wooing new auto plant and its 6,000 jobs

Illinois is among 20 to 25 states competing for a proposed General Motors Corporation plant which would employ 6,000 employees.

Governor James R. Thompson and a team of state economic development experts met Thursday with executives of Saturn Corporation, GM's new company, to discuss Illinois as a possible site for a new auto-manufacturing plant.

Thompson said he expects Illinois to be a strong bidder. "Competition for the plant will be strong...it will come down to three or four really serious contenders, of which Illinois will be one," the governor predicted.

He said company executives plan to make a decision about the location of the plant in 90 to 120 days.

During the meeting with Joseph Sanchez, president of the Saturn Corp., Thompson and his staff were shown a prototype of the new automobile and a presentation detailing the company's philosophy, a spokesman said.

"We will go back to them with a proposal and suggestions as soon as we learn what their specific requirements are. They are still in the process of shaping their final needs," Thompson said.

He said the plant will be a "green field" plant site. "That is, they will build a plant somewhere from scratch. It needs to be very energy efficient and it needs to draw from a pool of skilled labor forces," he noted.

Stanley Ikenberry, president of the University of Illinois, contacted the governor to offer the U of I's cooperation in attracting Saturn. Thompson said the engineering school at U of I could play a big part in matching the plant's needs with an Illinois location.

Thompson is the first governor, so far, to meet with Sanchez to discuss the Saturn plant. "I just wanted to demonstrate to him that in Illinois we have a positive attitude. We can hustle and we are as innovative as they intend their corporation to be," the governor noted.

Arrangements are being made for further discussions between Saturn executives and economic development experts from the governor's administration, he said.

Thompson asks for speedy action on funding for Interstate 255

Governor James R. Thompson sent a letter Friday to the Illinois Congress under these programs. We expect delays starting with the March 1 lettings and by April 1 (realistically about the earliest date that an ICE could be enacted), the delays in Illinois could total as much as $95 million worth of projects, rising to $135 million by May 1.

In his letter, the governor expressed concern that delay in passing the Interstate Cost Estimate (ICE) legislation could postpone highway construction throughout the state, including the Interstate 255 project east of the Quad-City area.

Nationally, more than $7 billion in previously-authorized federal highway and transit funds could be delayed until April, or later, if ICE legislation is not passed quickly, the governor said.

Illinois is waiting to receive between $250 million and $300 million, including $24 million to $34 million for I-255, $129 million for Interstate-substitute highway projects in the six-county Chicago region, and $97 million for Interstate-substitute transit projects primarily in the city of Chicago.

"The $7 billion total is composed of Fiscal Year 1984 and FY 1985 formula funds, which should have been distributed to the states on Oct. 1, 1983, and Oct. 1, 1984, respectively. Despite this delay, Illinois has managed to continue progress on its Interstate and Interstate-substitute programs by using discretionary funds (which can be allocated to states without an ICE) and through careful fiscal management," the governor said in the letter.

He continued, "However, we will soon reach the point where we no longer have sufficient federal funds to finance additional highway projects under these programs. We expect delays starting with the March 1 lettings and by April 1 (realistically about the earliest date that an ICE could be enacted), the delays in Illinois could total as much as $95 million worth of projects, rising to $135 million by May 1.

He noted that timing of ICE approval is "especially critical for northern states like Illinois, which will be increasing amounts of the limited construction season if the ICE is delayed past early spring."

"Congress considered the ICE issue last year, but was unable to reach agreement on a bill," Thompson noted.

"My understanding is that the House Public Works and Transportation Committee and Senate Environmental and Public Works Committee will again consider an ICE bill as soon as Congress reconvenes in late January. I encourage you to communicate to your colleges your support of speedy enactment of an ICE bill. I appreciate your assistance in this very important issue," Thompson said in his letter to the delegation.

County board to consider MAPCO rezoning request

A request for rezoning so that MAPCO can expand its facilities is among the zoning issues before the Madison County Board when it meets at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 16.

James G. and Betty J. Harmon, owners of MAPCO, have requested that an adjoining tract of land in an agricultural district in Nameoki Township be rezoned to a B-3 business district. MAPCO officials are asking for a variation to develop land in a flood area. The Madison County Zoning Board of Appeals has recommended that the request be granted.

MAPCO buys wrecked cars from insurance companies and resells them for salvage value. It is located on Route 162 at the curve in Stallings.

Other zoning requests endorsed by the zoning board and to be considered by the Madison County Board Wednesday include the following:

A request for a special use permit by Robert and Cheryl Wright, owners, and Dale and Theresa Phillips, purchasers and occupants, to continue the use of a mobile home in an R-3 one-family residence district in Nameoki Township. The property is located at 4800 Lake Drive in Johanna Anderson Estates Subdivision.

Jeannie and Bernice Thomas, owners and occupants, are asking for a special use permit to continue the use of a mobile home in an R-4 single-family residence district in Venice Township. The property is located at 106 Allen St. in Williams Subdivision.

Verna Barnett, owner, and Darrell Galt, lessee and occupant, are requesting a special use permit to place a mobile home in an R-4 single-family residence district in Nameoki Township. The property is located in Cloverleaf Addition on Collinsville Avenue.

Jerry S. Maers, owner, and Stephen and Tammy Wilson, occupants, want a special use permit to continue the placement of a mobile home in an agricultural district in Nameoki Township. The property is located on a dirt road off of Arlington Heights Road in Arlington Heights.

A request for a special use permit and a variation to develop land in a flood area to establish a natural material landfill in an agricultural district in Nameoki Township is being held in abeyance pending further study. Petitioners are Barbara J. Trider and Linda Pohlman, owners, and officials from TPI, LTD., an Illinois corporation. The property is located at the intersection of Route 111 and Interstate 55.

Also being held in abeyance pending further study is a request from Apolinar, Ross and Funk for a special use permit to operate a borrow pit in an M-2 general manufacturing district in Nameoki Township. The property is located near the intersection of Bend Road and the Old Frontage Road.

Add 2 years to GC school bus contract

The Granite City Board of Education has extended its contract with R.W. Harmon & Sons, Inc., to include the 1985-86 and 1986-87 school years.

The rate will be adjusted upward by 3 1/2 percent in each of the two added years.

HARMON BUSES are described as in generally excellent condition. Age of the 65 vehicles ranges from one to three years (21 are three years old), and the highest mileage on any of the buses is 27,000 miles, School Supt. Frank L. Kraus said.

With the fleet so new, few replacements will be necessary in the immediate future, enabling the student transportation contract to be extended with only minimum added cost to School District Nine, Kraus told the board.

JERRY SMITH, area manager of the Belton, Mo., Harmon firm, noted that the existing agreement, dated in June 1983 included an option to extend it two years.

The rate adjustments are based on increases in daily operating costs and are required, under the contract, to be in the range of 0 to 8 percent.

"Provided we may continue to operate our present fleet of buses through the 1986-87 year, we can get our rate adjustments to 3 1/2 percent for each of the two option years," Smith related.

Through Nov. 30, District Nine had spent $414,583—including an allocation for gasoline—to transport pupils on the first 52 attendance days of 1984-85.

President Lazerson calls for planning in 21st Century

President Earl Lazerson of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has challenged the university to begin planning for the role of educational leadership in the 21st century.

Speaking to the university community Thursday afternoon in the Communications Building theater, the President cited the historical development of the institution and the essential principles of the institution's mission, recognized some of the major impediments to achievement of the mission and the ways the university is dealing with such impediments and called upon the faculty and staff to look ahead to the task of educating effective citizens for the next century.

LAZERSON SAID he has a conviction that SIUE, "given its singular strengths and opportunities," can respond to the concerns of the 21st century "with particular dedication and distinction." Looking ahead, he said:

"By all indications, the 21st century will test the essential premises of effective citizenship. As the social consequences of scientific discovery become ever more apparent, the workings of science become ever more obscure even to well-educated citizens.

"How will such citizens be able to make responsible judgments on issues that affect their welfare? As communication depends ever more heavily on electronic media, our attention spans contract.

"WILL CITIZENS in the 21st century be willing to give complex issues the attention they require? As the limits on resources become clearer, the costs of social services become clearer as well.

"Will citizens in the 21st century be willing to recognize and pay for the legitimate claims of society? Will the citizen of the 21st century value his or her place in a community, and will that citizen respect an obligation to that community?"

President Lazerson said he believes answers to the questions can be found "by doing our jobs well."

"But we can do more," he declared. "We can teach the values of community by taking pride in the values of our own community—our 'academic village,' in the words of Thomas Jefferson. We can demonstrate the importance of careful judgment by exercising such judgment within our community. And we can vouch for the tradition of humane learning by being humane to one another at all times, though all differences of opinion. We can train our students in adaptability by demonstrating that virtue ourselves, by our receptivity to new ideas and our willingness to work in favor of those we think worthy.

"IN SHORT, WE can, I think, best educate effective citizens of the 21st century if we are willing to exercise now those qualities of mind and spirit which that century is likely to test most rigorously," the president stated.

Lazerson said it is basic that citizens for the next century must be taught "to think clearly, to write well, to read and listen critically. Many should learn foreign languages, for the world of the next century will be even smaller than our own." And he said students should know enough of art, of athletics, of literature, and of society to make good use of the new opportunities the next century will offer for the use of leisure time.

"More important, however, if we are to educate citizens for the 21st century, we must show them that beyond work and family, there are responsibilities to the community, and that, in the words of the Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, 'a world of greater justice and beauty' remains for us a real possibility."

EMPHASIZING A PRIMARY focus of the university's mission, "to provide all our students, both the historically dispossessed and the traditionally college-bound, with an education equivalent in excellence to any," President Lazerson reiterated SIUE's goals:

"To maintain an environment in which learning, scholarship, and service flourish.

"To implement a superior general education curriculum as the keystone of all undergraduate work."

TO MAINTAIN distinguished programs in the liberal arts and sciences.

"To provide professional programs and other services warranted by the continuing and emerging needs of this region.

"To assist students with convenient, supportive services, fee schedules, instructional formats, and calendars.

"To increase minority participation in under-represented academic fields.

— TO ENCOURAGE scholarship, research and creativity, among faculty and students.

"To merit the continuing respect and support of alumni, other citizens served by the university, and of the larger educational community."

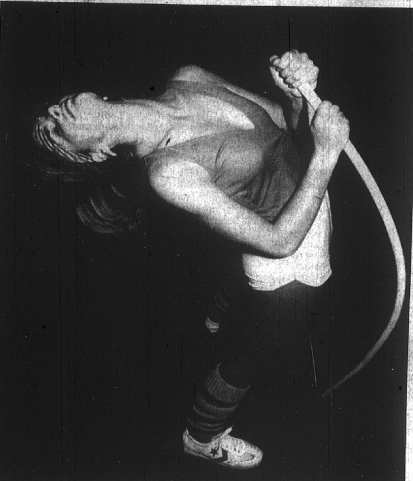

The president cited a number of impediments to the objectives, including: lack of resources; inadequate efforts to attract, recruit and retain qualified students; lack of information about the educational needs of potential students; concerns about the quality of institutional life; and failures of understanding with regard to institutional mission and current objectives. But he expressed optimism that through "needs assessment" and other initiatives, including programmatic recommendations developed by the Long Range Planning Council, the University Self-Study, and the Goals and Objectives statement, the impediments will be overcome and the mission achieved.

"THERE IS A spirit of hope and excitement on this campus," Lazerson said. "I see evidence of a developing commitment to the values and goals of this institution, and I sense a renewed confidence in our ability to achieve our mission."

The president said "formidable fiscal challenges" have been resolved successfully at SIUE, and he observed that the university is benefiting from "the renewal of a national commitment to the critical importance of education." He concluded:

"In Washington and in statehouses throughout the country, our public servants are hearing the message that education must again be the nation's first priority."

GCC helps students get started

Persons who want to get a four-year college degree, can get started on the right track at Granite City Center of Belleville Area College.

GCC offers a wide array of classes that will transfer to four-year colleges and universities so students can earn credit toward that four-year degree at a reasonable cost and while living at home.

"GCC OFFERS many general studies (transfer) classes," said Teresa Johnson, an educational specialist at GCC. "Students can take these basic required courses here at home before they begin their majors or specialized career studies.

"This will save them money, and for some beginning college students who might have been lost in a large lecture situation at a university, the smaller class size and familiar atmosphere are a special help."

"I believe the success these students experience in college work here will encourage them to continue their studies."

REGISTRATION for these and other classes is now underway.

Stamp Club seeks new members

The Stamp Club at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is looking for new members from the campus and outside community.

The club's meetings are held on the second Wednesday of each month at 12:30 p.m. in the Mt. Chigami Room of the University Center. Most members bring a lunch or go through the cafeteria lines. There is no fee for membership.

THE NEXT meeting will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 13, when Frank Oakes, an associate professor with Lovejoy Library, will lead the group.

On March 13, the program will be sponsored by the Granite City Post Office's philatelic service. For additional information, interested persons may contact Stanley Kimball at 1-692-3580.

Financial aid forms available now at SIUE

Applicants for financial assistance for the 1985-86 academic year at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are now available from the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

According to John Jenetten, director, students may pick up the necessary forms in Room 2306 of the Rendleman Building or from their high school counselors.

TWO FORMS are required to make application, Jenetten said. In addition to the 1985-86 SIUE application for financial aid, students must also complete the 1985-86 American College Testing-Family Financial Statement (FFS).

The ACT-FFS form can also be used to apply for the Illinois State

Scholarship Commission (ISSC)

monetary award and the Pell Grant.

Students planning to apply for the Guaranteed Student Loan Program should also file the ACT/Family Financial Statement to be assured of financial aid available, Jenetten said.

INFORMATION REGARDING all types of financial aid available to students planning to attend the university during the 1985-86 academic year may be obtained by contacting the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance at SIUE, Box 60, Edwardsville, Ill., at 62028 or by telephoning 1-692-3580.

Students planning to attend the university next year and who can demonstrate financial need should apply as soon as possible, but not later than May 1, 1985.

Deadline for the Pell Grant is March 15, 1985. The deadline for an ISSC award is June 1, 1985 for upperclassmen and Oct. 1, 1985 for freshmen.

GCC program gives students experience

Granite City Center of Belleville Area College can provide businesses with a trained secretarial-science student for a minimum cost.

An exciting part of GCC's educational experience is the secretarial science/word processing field project. A student works an average of 10 hours a week (for minimum wage) at an area business, supervised by an instructor. The students then meet to discuss their experiences in class.

Persons who are interested in hiring such a student, may call Judi Sparks, 931-0600.

BAC's Counseling Center sets hours

Belleville Area College's Counseling and Placement Center has announced its hours for the spring semester.

The center will be open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Fridays.

The center has scheduled the ASSET testing and orientation program through the month of January. ASSET is BAC's math and English placement test. It is used to place students in class levels.

college catalog and schedule, will be handed out to the students.

THE PROGRAM will be held from noon to 3:30 p.m. and from 6 to 9:30 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday during January. The testing dates left are Jan. 16, 21, 23 and 30.

Caring teacher cites impact on young of families' attitudes, quest for excellence

Some proponents of educational reform have made teachers "scapegoats" for problems facing public schools, according to Illinois 1984-1985 teacher of the year, Robert Maguire, 35, of Millstadt.

An art teacher for Cahokia High School, he says school problems are not the answer. He thinks many of the problems result from social and attitudinal changes that have taken place outside the classroom walls.

"You've got mothers and fathers who are both working. You've got children who are coming home and they're by themselves. You've got break-ups of the family unit. You've got drug and alcohol problems."

"Education used to be an institution to better society. It is now an institution that reflects society," Maguire said.

"The whole system is in need of a change, but it has to start with parents in cooperation with teachers and school administrators."

Maguire, who has taught his entire 15 years at Cahokia, believes teachers must play a major role in restoring the image of teaching as a profession.

"I know the public is casting aspersions on us as the worst of society," he said. "We have to sell our programs. As teacher, we have to let the public know and see that we are providing excellence. If we don't, teachers can't expect anything but the public's scorn."

"The most important job in America is being a teacher. I don't care what anybody says. Doctors see kids when they're sick, and lawyers see them when they're in trouble. We see them day in and day out for nine months. There's our future—sitting in the classroom."

"Teachers used to be the most respected people in the community because they worked for that respect. My students respect me because they know I would break my back to help them."

"Along with teacher image, the way we prepare ourselves to become teachers must be addressed as a necessary educational reform."

"What you learn in the classroom doesn't have the impact that practical experience has. I would recommend that the entire senior year of a college student preparing to teach be devoted to student teaching."

"I still don't think that is enough time. I learned about teaching when I walked into the classroom. I am still learning and progressing as a teacher."

Maguire describes discipline not as a cure-all for teachers but as an important tool for attaining students' academic excellence.

In his philosophy of teaching, he said, "Success in my program stems from my belief in discipline and structure within the classroom."

"The first day of class we start with what I expect of them as students and what they can expect of me as their teacher."

"We have gotten so concerned about the psyche of students—trying to have them enjoy education—that they have forgotten the real enjoyment of education, achieving excellence."

If proof is in the pudding, Maguire's students fit the mold. During the past six years that he has offered an independent study art class, Maguire has had 30 students who have been offered 10 scholarships. In addition to the scholarships, the students have received numerous fellowships, state and national art awards.

Besides his independent study art class, Maguire also teaches art appreciation, basic and advanced design, and basic drawing. He also has developed a guide for the high school's art department. The independent study class, however, holds a special place in Maguire's teaching career.

To convince the school administration of the need, he taught the class for the first three years on his scheduled free time. The administration was so impressed with the class that the courses became a part of the regular class load. Students are selected for the class by Maguire from his drawing and design courses.

"In this class, the students compile and construct a portfolio. These portfolios are submitted for review several times during the year at universities, museums and galleries we visit. They learn through practical application the ins and outs of competing for a professional level," Maguire explained.

His independent art class has produced students who have received scholarship offerings from the Pratt Institute of Chicago, Pratt Art Institute in New York, Kansas City Art Institute in Missouri, Stuttgart Academy of Fine Arts in Germany, Washington University in St. Louis, and several Illinois universities, just to name a few.

Also, Maguire's students have won awards in the national Ivy School of Professional Art contest, the Pratt Art Institute National Talent Search contest, National Art Education Association and Reader's Digest contests, the Southern Illinois University reviews, the artwork of exhibit, and many others.

At one of Washington University's art portfolio reviews, the artwork of Maguire's students was appraised as some of the best the faculty admitted. The committee has reviewed, including student artwork from New York, Chicago, Detroit and other major cities.

"I teach art as if I were a mathematician. I start with the basics and build step by step. I work from the assumption that the student has never had an art class," Maguire related. He provides students with a basic knowledge of art, so that whether they decide to further their education or not, they will be able to express themselves.

He is an artist in his own right. Maguire's artwork has been exhibited at such places as the Chicago Art Institute, Pan-American Festival of Painting and Sculpture at the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago, Illinois Arts Council Gallery in Chicago, Mid-States Art Exhibition, Museum of Arts and Sciences at Evansville, Ind., Southern Illinois Artists Open Competition, Mitchell Museum at Mt. Vernon, and others. He has received numerous awards and accolades.

A former principal of Cahokia High School, Earl W. Lee, said Maguire encouraged and helped many students submit their artwork to colleges.

He personally saw it that their portfolios were suitably matted and delivered to the appropriate school. Much of his time, his own money and travel expenses were donated to the students. As a result, each year Cahokia students have been rewarded with scholarships, usually to more than one institution. Without these, many of our students would not be able to attend college," Lee said.

Robert Williamson, superintendent of Cahokia District 157, said, "Maguire brings total commitment to his teaching, both in terms of time and a sustained effort toward bringing out the best in young people."

In addition to his school duties, Maguire is active in sharing the artistic talents of students with the community.

He has helped to establish permanent collections of student artwork which are displayed at the Cahokia Library, the Bank of Cahokia and throughout the school district. He also worked with the bank to set up an annual fellowship and with the Cahokia Chamber of Commerce to organize an art contest with a cash award.

He received a bachelor of fine arts degree at SIUE in 1971. He and his wife, Cheryl, have two children.

As the 1985 Illinois teacher of the year, Maguire advanced to the National Teacher of the Year contest. A national winner will be named this spring.

SPEECH FINALIST. Jim Drogo, third place finalist in dramatic interpretation, displays his trophy from the Belleville East Speech Tournament. Drogo is a member of the high school speech team, coached by Ron Penell. The team is currently preparing for the Illinois High School Association's state tournament series in February.

Chemistry lab, plant valuation, bonds progress

Bids will be sought to upgrade the Granite City High School chemistry laboratory and expand the lab's capacity. Supt. Frank L. Kraus said at the close of a regular Board of Education meeting last week.

Competitive bidding also is planned on replacing some of the vehicles operated by the maintenance staff of School District Nine.

INSTALLATION of a chairlift at GCIS for use by handicapped persons has been delayed by a structural problem, but the project is expected to proceed by the end of this week, Ronald Landman, director of buildings and grounds, told the board.

Supt. Kraus said after the meeting that an appraisal of Granite City Steel for possible revision of the plant's assessed valuation is proceeding. Detailed Tuesday night's guidelines have not yet been considered for action.

Kraus, legal counsel, a representative of the company, an appraiser retained by the steelmaker and the appraiser hired by local taxing agencies conferred in Chicago last month.

NO DATE has been set for a state assessment appeal hearing, and distribution of protested taxes is not being impeded.

Don Lindberg, the investment official handling the school system's $6,600,000 working cash fund bond issue, attended Tuesday night's board meeting and said a special board session will be requested, probably this month, to proceed with the sale.

Lindberg said early action is advisable, in order to utilize and invest bond proceeds prior to expending them in meeting school costs.

HE HAD ADVISED delay until 1985, even though the bonds will be dated Dec. 31, 1984, because the bond market was unsettled by talk of federal tax law changes.

Now, he said Tuesday, conditions are becoming more favorable for bond sales. From the school district's viewpoint, issuance of bonds to convert short-term debt to 10 years was approved by voters Nov. 6.

The special meeting will be devoted to the bond transactions. In an unrelated action, the board and board of trustees met Monday, Jan. 21.

STEAL BICYCLE

Public meeting on aviation planned

The third public information meeting on the General Aviation System Plan for the St. Louis region will take place Thursday, Jan. 17, at 6:30 p.m. at the Noah's Ark Restaurant in St. Charles, Mo.

This general aviation plan is a cooperative effort among the states of Missouri and Illinois and two regions of the federal Aviation Administration and the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council. This public information meeting is being hosted by the St. Charles County Airport and the St. Charles Municipal Airport.

Several alternatives will be presented in terms of the ability of each to meet the goals and objectives of the general aviation plan. The criteria used to evaluate each airport site as well as the findings will be discussed. The need for new airports that might be warranted in the future as well as the type of facility improvements on existing airports will be presented.

Input from the public and the aviation community is essential during the final stages of the general aviation plan, a spokesman said. Anyone needing more information may contact the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council at 274-2750.

Collinsville singers invite new members

Ladies who enjoy music and who would like to sing in a group, are invited to attend rehearsals of the Collinsville Sweet Adelines throughout the month of January.

The group meets Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. in the old Collinsville High School gym, now the Son-Life Fellowship, 1803 Vandellia.

The chorus, 1980 and 1983 Regional Champions, is preparing for regional competition to be held in April in Springfield, Ill. The chorus is looking for members who sing first or second soprano or alto. No formal musical training is needed—just a love of music.

The main purpose of this non-profit organization, is to encourage and encourage interest and activity in preserving this American folk art. For more information, interested women may call 931-1409.

Alice A. Steward, 34, of 4025 Park Lane, sustained an injury and was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 11:25 a.m. Saturday, following an accident on Route 162 at East 23rd Street.

After the impact, Mrs. Steward's vehicle continued north on East 23rd Street, jumped a curb and struck a power pole in front of Lake School before coming to a halt near a ditch in front of the school building, reports said.

Mrs. Wilma Childers, 55, of the "Steward" truck, also suffered an injury but declined immediate medical attention.

AFSCME retirees win $8.5 million

Some American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) retirees recently won an $8.5 million legislative victory in the Illinois legislature.

Senate Bill 1610, containing an appropriation averaging $337 each for 25,000 state employees who are required to pay their own Medicare Part B from Jan. 1, 1972, to June 30, 1978, was passed in December.

For the past nine months, AFSCME retirees across the state wrote letters and called their legislators urging them to appropriate the money to pay the class of people treated unjustly as defined by the Illinois Third District Appellate Court in the Endicott case.

Steve Prockwinkle, legislative director for AFSCME Council 31, said, "The tremendous number of letters the state legislators received on this issue really got their attention. It hadn't been for the lobbying efforts of AFSCME retirees, this would have lain in the shuffle and never passed."

The Gendel case is a class action suit brought on behalf of 25,000 retired state employees who were ordered to pay to receive the same health insurance coverage employees under, 65 received for free. The Illinois Third District Appellate Court ruled the director of personnel of the state of Illinois exceeded his statutory authority in ordering 25,000 people to pay for Medicare.

AFSCME retirees across the state are now in the process of notifying those who do not know they have money coming back. AFSCME will help any of its members who feel the amount to be refunded to them is not correct when hearings are held by a commissioner appointed by the court of claims.

Enrollment now open for Landscape School

Enrollment is now open for anyone interested in attending Landscape School, which will start March 4, at 7:30 p.m. at the Extension office in Edwardsville.

The Landscape School will be a series of five meetings taught over the University of Illinois telecast system by Floyd Giles, University of Illinois horticulture specialist.

The topics for the meetings include: March 4—Introduction to Landscape Design; March 11—Creating a Design; March 18—Smaller Landscape Plants; March 25—Larger Landscape Plants; and April 1—Putting Plants into the Landscape Design.

The objective of the Landscape School is to provide persons with the necessary information and background in the area of landscaping, to enable them to develop their own landscape plan. A packet of educational materials will be provided at each Landscape session.

Advanced registration for the Landscape School is necessary. Registration fee for the five meeting sessions is $27.50. Because of limited space, registration will be on a first come, first served basis.

To register for school, interested persons should call the name, address and check for $27.50 to Madison County Extension Office, Box 427, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville, Ill., 62025. The deadline for registration is Feb. 4.

On recommendation from Gene Futch, sewer superintendent, the purchasing of a new pump and coordinating parts also were approved by the committee. The material, costing $2,082, is for a lift station at Maryville and Chain of Rocks Roads, which has recently been overhauled.

John Arnold, representing Shepherd, Morgan and Schwaab, engineers, justified the installation
